City Hall---See You in December

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The four-year city hall controversy may be finally resolved in December, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan told The Freeman.

Maybe. "The next mayor could veto the project if the bids come in over estimate," Garraghan said. The estimate is $900,000, the bond issue approved by the Common Council in June for the construction of the new city hall in Broadway East.

What are the chances of the building going over estimates? "Right now, it's pretty close," Garraghan said. "We're figuring in the high eight hundred thousands."

The "we" Garraghan is referring to is the architectural firm of Albert E. Milliken, who has been working on the plans since June. "I know there's been delays," Garraghan said, "but we're working as quickly as possible."

Special

Another delay Garraghan has been questioned about is the failure of the city to purchase the 4.2 acres of land for the new building from the urban renewal agency.

The money, $25,000, was a budget item approved by the Common Council in January. "I'm sending the check over to the agency the first thing next week," Garraghan said. The actual amount for the land, according to the mayor, is $23,900.

The delay on the purchase of the land, Garraghan said, hasn't been the city's fault. "The urban renewal agency won't sell us the land until contracts are signed."

As Garraghan sees it, the bids will be advertised by Dec. 1 and opened by Dec. 15. The contracts he refers to could be signed before Christmas, if the low bid is under $900,000.

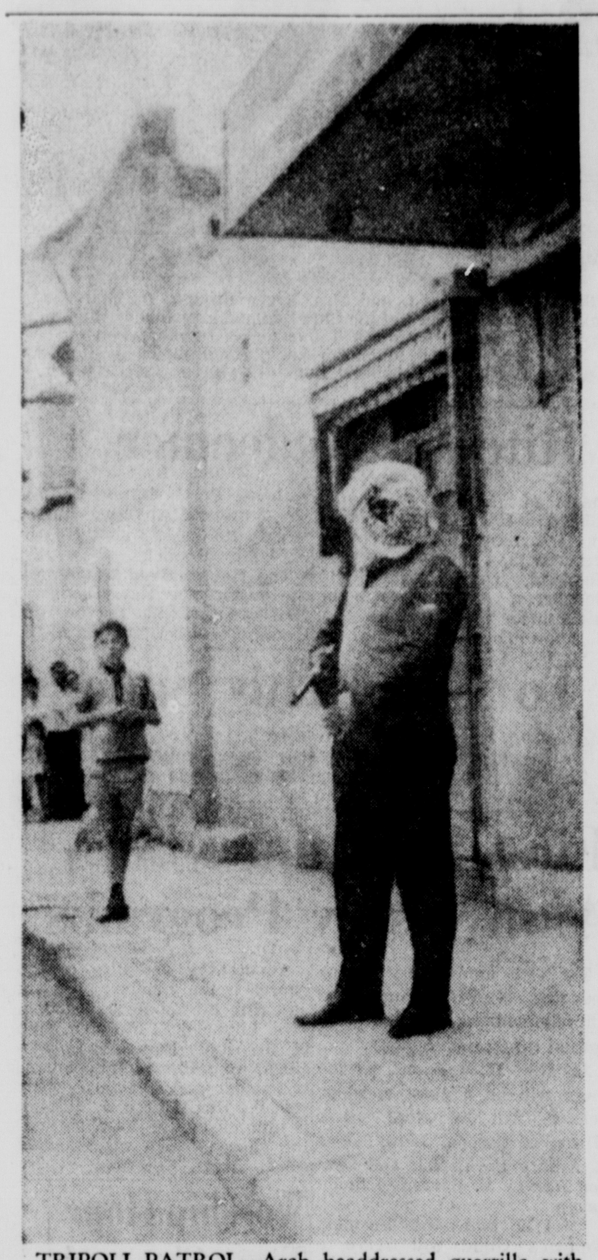

A new city hall was one of Garraghan's campaign pledges in 1965 when he ran for his first term. Since then the issue has been confused, in part, by Garraghan himself, who has at various times, offered conflicting statements on the price (from $400,000 to over a million dollars) the location (generally downtown but he once called for the purchase of the Central Hudson Building on Broadway for a city hall) and whether or not he really wanted it (on more than one occasion Garraghan has "given up" on his plans).

The Common Council has gone along with the mayor, at least as far as agreeing to the fact that a city hall might be needed. They approved a dual study, one of the old hall and one for a new hall, in 1967 but Garraghan vetoed it.

On two separate occasions the Common Council rejected Garraghan's city hall plans, although that was last year when the Democrats had only an 8-5 majority. This June the Common Council approved the new city hall downtown by an 11-2 margin.

300 Armed Men Cross Border

Lebanon Invaded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An armored force of 300 men has crossed into Lebanon from Syria and occupy hills overlooking the village of Yanta, Beirut radio said today.

Yanta is about four miles from Lebanon's eastern border with Syria.

The broadcast said five armored cars, three jeeps with recoilless rifles and eight vehicles towing 120mm mortars made up the force that entered Lebanon Friday night.

The column was not identified as being a regular Syrian unit, but authoritative sources said they believed it was a contingent from the Syrian army.

The radio said Lebanese army units moved up to the village to block access routes and prevent the force from advancing.

There was no report of an engagement between the two sides.

The invading soldiers were carried in 20 trucks, the radio said.

Unconfirmed reports said five Lebanese border guards on patrol near the village had been kidnaped.

The announcement came shortly after Syria said that despite its anger with Lebanon over the guerrilla issue, it would only direct its fire at the Israeli army.

Arab guerrilla forces fought Lebanese security forces throughout the night, storming police posts in the north and battling for control of two frontier villages in the south.

In the northern port city of Tripoli, where street warfare erupted Thursday, guerrillas and their supporters were reported today to have occupied a number of police posts and to have wrested virtual control of the Old City from authorities.

The Old City is a rabbit warren of steep, twisting alleyways dominated by a 13th century castle. Street fighting still raged there at noon, and at least one person was reported killed.

A government communique reported three other persons were killed in Tripoli during the night when an explosion ripped through a gun shop that had been broken into by an armed band.

The Palestine Liberation Organization claimed its guerrillas captured and burned a police post at Menia, 12 miles from the Syrian frontier.

Lebanese authorities reported a midnight attack by 60 armed men on another police post at Seir el Dunia north of Tripoli. They said the raid was beaten off by the police garrison.

In the south near the Israeli border, a guerrilla force of 300 men took over the village of Bint Jbeil. But another band was forced out of the village of Deir Mimas, 15 miles to the northeast.

The PLO, which loosely controls most guerrilla groups, reported that three guerrillas were killed and two wounded in the battle for Deir Mimas, and 27 were taken prisoner by the Lebanese army.

Lebanese troops were reported to have surrounded Bint Jbeil and ordered the guerrillas there to surrender.

The villages are in the central sector of the Lebanese southern frontier, where battles between Lebanese troops and guerrillas earlier this week sparked the current crisis in the tiny country.

"We shall never direct our fire against Arabs," a communique said. "We save our armor for the Israeli enemy."

A PLO spokesman in Beirut reported that all police posts in Lebanon's 15 Palestinian refugee camps have been evacuated by security forces and taken over by guerrilla militiamen.

"We will not allow the Lebanese to come back until Palestinians are given equal rights with other citizens of this country," the spokesman said.

As apprehension in the Arab world mounted over the incidents in Lebanon, attempts were reported under way to mediate the dispute between Lebanon and the Arab guerrillas who want to use the country as a base for attacks on Israel.

Meanwhile, stepped-up action continued on the Arab-Israeli front. Israeli jets bombed an Arab guerrilla camp near Amman, the Jordanian capital, today, and Egyptian jets attacked Israeli position's in the Sinai desert.

The Israelis said the attack in Jordan near Salt was aimed at a guerrilla camp that had been a target in another air raid Thursday.

A Jordanian spokesman said the Israeli raid wounded one soldier and seven civilians, including one woman. He did not say whether antiaircraft guns in Amman brought down any Israeli planes.

Lebanese troops in Tripoli drew sporadic fire into Friday night as they patrolled the streets. Armed elements remained entrenched in the old city today.

Will Resume Arms Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are expected to start long-awaited arms limitation talks late next month in Helsinki, Vienna or Geneva.

Informed sources said announcement of an agreement looking toward opening of the talks to limit the nuclear arms race was planned for today. They expected simultaneous announcements in Moscow and Washington.

President Nixon flew to his nearby Camp David, Md., mountain retreat late Friday without word on just when he would return.

Nixon gave the Soviets notice June 11 that the United States would be ready as of July 31 to begin the discussions aimed at restraining the expensive atomic arms competition between the two nations. He suggested Vienna or Geneva as sites for the talks, but left alternatives open. Communist sources had indicated they prefer Helsinki.

To the administration's disappointment, the Kremlin gave no answer to Nixon's bid during the summer. On Sept. 22, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko told U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers a Moscow response would be forthcoming "soon."

Then last Wednesday Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin called on Rogers with what was described as a response to the Nixon offer.

When such disarmament talks do get going, the negotiators are expected to focus initially on possibilities for limiting multi-warhead missiles and antimissile defense systems.

Some senators have suggested the United States hold up development of both systems in anticipation an agreement could be reached in the forthcoming talks. But others argued it would tie the hands of the administration to formally halt development of the missile defense system or the deadly new rocket warheads.

Denies All Charges

McCormack to Seek Another Term

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The young liberals had counted out the old man too soon. Speaker John W. McCormack, 77 and under fire as a patsy for people he thought were his friends, said he was running for Speaker again and expected to win.

"I think it's very sad," commented Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., who was the first man in the House to say—and he started saying it two years ago — that it was time for McCormack to turn in his gavel.

Bolling and many others of the liberal bloc had figured that McCormack, occupant of the nation's second most powerful post since 1962 and a veteran of 41 years in the House, would decide next year he had enjoyed honors enough.

But when charges started leaking out of the grand jury rooms in New York and Baltimore, with their hints that wrongdoing on the part of an aide and a friend, they began to speculate he might get his back up.

He did.

At a jampacked news conference Friday, tilting back in the same big office chair one of his presumed betrayers was alleged to have occupied while taking a $5,000 cash fee in a tax case—McCormack pronounced himself not only innocent of every charge, insinuation, and innuendo published in every paper and news magazine for more than a week, but ignorant even of most of the names and cases involved.

And he said he wasn't about to sit by and see his public service and responsibility, after so many years, irreparably damaged by "irresponsible journalism" and "unwarranted villification."

A reporter wanted to know if, in the light of events, he still planned to run for his South Boston congressional seat once again—his 22nd try for the post he has held since Nov. 6, 1928.

He said he did, and he expected to win.

And — the ticklish question — did he expect to offer himself to House Democrats again as their candidate for Speaker, a post he has held since 1962, at the start of the 92nd Congress?

He could have ducked that one with no trouble.

But the way they play politics up in Boston you not only don't quit under fire, you don't let anybody think you might. McCormack, as gray and as gaunt as he's been for years, but as tough as he's had to be since quitting school and make his way in the world at 14, smiled and said he was glad somebody had asked.

He definitely was running for Speaker again.

Did he expect to win?

"I have confidence in my friends," he replied.

Looking at it another way, that of course was his trouble. The facts appeared to be that McCormack's $36,000 assistant, Martin Sweig, had violated his orders and intervened in a pending securities case. According to an official complaint, still to be tried, McCormack's friend Nathan Voloshen got $50,000 for his part in that case.

Sweig was suspended without pay—in effect fired—a week ago when McCormack learned about this. But, as the week went by, it appeared there was more.

Calls had been made in the Speaker's name and, some people had been led to believe, by the Speaker himself, in odorous cases. His name had been dropped, his letterheads borrowed, his office used, so it was said.

"It's too bad you find out these things after the fact," the Speaker said. "It could have happened to anybody."

Other lawmakers tended to agree. What they didn't agree on was what it all meant. A quick check of available members indicated a belief that if McCormack runs for Speaker again, as he says, he very likely could win. It also showed he won't get the job again without a fight — a fight he could lose.

Report Secret State GOP Plan To Redistrict Senate, Assembly

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republican leaders are seriously considering a surprise move to redistrict the legislature at a post-election special session, The Associated Press learned today.

Highly placed Republicans reported that party leaders are prepared to go into court seeking permission to draw new district lines for the Senate and Assembly.

The object, of course, would be to group voters in such a way as to enhance GOP prospects of victory in the 1970 legislative elections.

"Whoever wins next year is going to be in control around here for a long time," a Republican leader told the AP. "It's worth taking a few political risks now."

At present, both houses are in Republican control, but the margin in the Assembly is precariously thin. GOP leaders fear that Democrats might capture the Assembly in 1970, giving them an equal voice in the reapportionment that will follow the 1970 census.

It had been common knowledge that Gov. Rockefeller intended to call the legislature into special session after the Nov. 4 election to draw new lines for the state's congressional districts. The state is under a court order to do this by Jan. 31.

Rockefeller and the legislature's Republican leaders, Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr. and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, had agreed that it would be better to handle the problem at a special session rather than mixing it into business of the 1970 regular session, which is to convene Jan. 7.

The special session thus was scheduled tentatively for Nov. 24.

Now, the plan is to delay the special session until late December. There are a variety of reasons.

First, some Republican sources say the legislative committee working on the congressional lines simply cannot be ready any earlier than that. Apparently, many of the people working up the new districts have been distracted by the impending election.

More important, the delay would give the GOP time to go into court and, hopefully, obtain permission to reopen the proceedings that produced the present legislative redistricting plan —by court decree—in 1966.

AP Exclusive

In addition, a late December session would put rank-and-file lawmakers up against the pressure of the approaching Christmas-New Year holiday session. The leaders assume this would minimize oratorical opposition.

The Senate and Assembly are now sitting under a redistricting plan imposed in 1966 by a special commission appointed by the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court. The court stepped in after the Assembly, then controlled by Democrats, and the GOP-ruled Senate were unable to agree on a plan of their own.

Running on the court-imposed scheme in 1966, Republicans held the Senate and Democrats retained their grip on the Assembly. But in the 1968 election, the GOP eked out a narrow majority and formed a controlling coalition with two lawmakers elected as members of the Conservative party.

With 76 votes needed to command the 150-member house, the GOP can count on 78 at present—a margin considered probably too thin to risk in next year's election, unless some changes are made.

Party lawyers have noted that the Court of Appeals had decreed its plan would remain in force "until validly superseded." Their approach would be to go back to the court and ask exactly what that means.

They also would point out that the U.S. Supreme Court since has imposed a more rigid standard of reapportionment, stating in the congressional case that the population of districts should be precisely equal.

Under the Court of Appeals plan imposed on the legislature, population of some Senate and Assembly districts vary by up to 11 per cent from the average. The lawyers would ask the court whether the legislature should be allowed to correct it.

GOP reapportionment experts have assured the leaders that, even operating within tight mathematical restrictions, they could create new districts that would improve the GOP's election prospects.

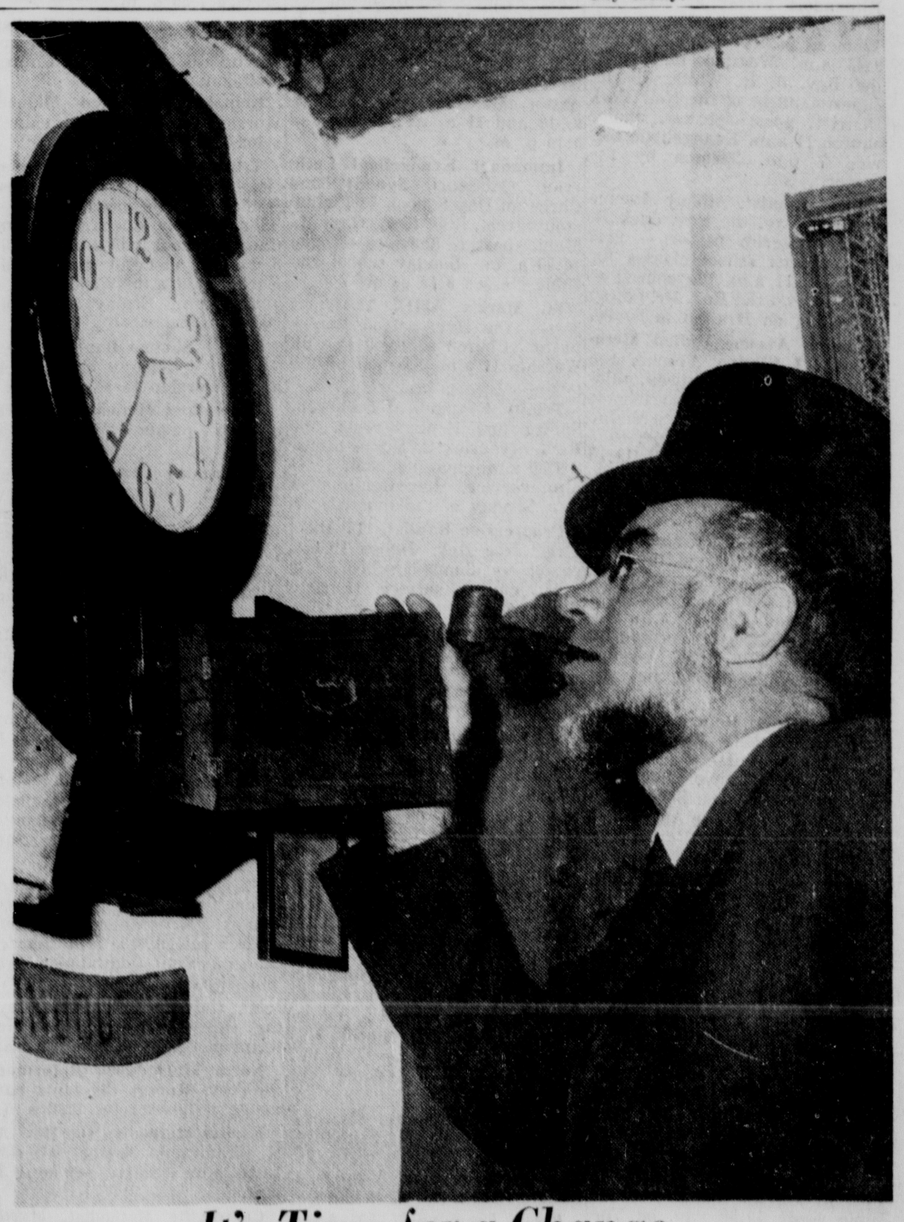

Brydges and Duryea were said to be awaiting the outcome of the various local elections across the state before making a final decision on legislative apportionment. They will be looking for signs of increased or diminished Republican strength—in terms of the likely effect on the 1970 balloting.

Council Leader To Be Speaker At Area Church

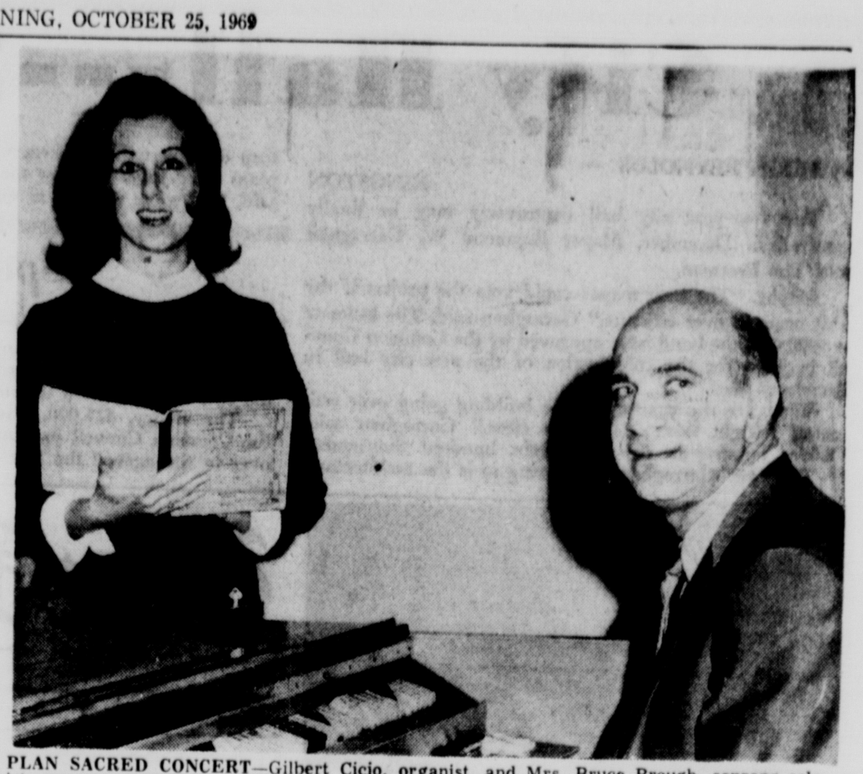

NEW PALTZ

Guest speaker at the New Paltz United Methodist Church Sunday 8:30 a.m. will be the Rev. Kenneth A. Roadarmel, general secretary of the New York State Council of Churches.

The pastor of the host church, the Rev. Roy Allan Hassel, invites members of the community to attend. Music will be provided by the junior choir under the direction of Mrs. Paul Steiner.

After the worship service the Rev. Mr. Roadarmel will meet with the adult discussion group of the church at 9:30 a.m. for an informal discussion. A coffee hour will be held at 10:30 a.m. in the social room.

The guest speaker has held his present post since 1950. He previously held executive posts in the New York State Baptist Convention and served on numerous committees of the National Council of Churches. Of particular interest to New Paltz area residents is his work with the Governor's Advisory Board on Migratory Labor.

PLAN SACRED CONCERT—Gilbert Cicio, organist, and Mrs. Bruce Brough, soprano soloist, prepare concert of sacred music to be presented at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 90 Miller's Lane, Sunday 4 p.m. The program will include a Guilmant Sonata; a number for solo flute by Petro Yon; Toccata in D Minor by Nevin; Communion by Purvis and Prelude and Fugue in E Minor, Bach. Mrs. Walter Hopkins will be accompanist. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Reformation Sunday Rites at Redeemer

KINGSTON

The Festival of the Reformation will be observed at services on Sunday 9:30 and 10:45 a.m. at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers Streets. A processional banner in the red liturgical color designed and executed by members of the Luther League and bearing the words, "The Truth will make you free" will precede the choir in procession at both services.

The prelude for the 10:45 service will feature an arrangement of Lindeman's hymn Built on a Rock by Held, played by Mrs. Lester Decker on the organ with a trumpet duet by Reginald Deyo and Keith Dougherty. At that service the choir under the direction of J. A. Hummel Jr. will sing the anthems Christ is our Cornerstone by Aufdemberge and A Mighty Fortress, a choral paraphrase by Mueller.

The Reformation sermon by the pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise, DD, will be on the theme, The Rock That Is Alive.

South Rondout Church To Close This Sunday

CONNELLY

Final services will be held at the South Rondout United Methodist Church, First Street, Connelly this Sunday at 9 a. m.

The church is merging with Trinity United Methodist Church of Kingston to allow a more complete ministry including religious education and church societies.

It is expected that the building, which was originally on Third Street and was moved to the First Street location in 1911, will be turned over to the Connelly Fire Commissioners.

Plans call for use of the basement to house equipment while the upper floor will be used as meeting rooms.

Participating in the Sunday service will be the Rev. Paul M. Allen, Hudson-North District superintendent; the Rev. Clarence W. Smith, pastor of the church 1925 to 1927 and the Rev. James P. Veatch, present pastor of South Rondout and Trinity United Methodist Churches. Service will stress the life and work of the church which was organized as the People's Union Church in the late 1800's and became a Methodist Episcopal affiliate after the turn of the century.

In recent years, membership of the church has dwindled to only 11 members and the ministry was limited to an early Sunday service during the winter.

Salvation Army Starts Series

KINGSTON

The Salvation Army is initiating a new series of meetings which will start Sunday. This series will run nine months and will be conducted the last Sunday of every month. Each meeting will start at 6 p.m.

Sunday's program will feature a film strip entitled The Hippies. Following the film, Robert Post of the American Legion Post 150, will address the group and hold a discussion period.

This meeting is designed for those who attend the Salvation Army church services, but the interested public may attend.

Worship Hour Time Changed At Marbletown

STONE RIDGE

The Marbletown Reformed Church of Stone Ridge has voted to change Sunday worship and church school hours.

The new schedule will go into effect Nov. 2. Both worship and Sunday school will now start at 10:30 a.m. The hours have been adjusted to have Sunday school meet during worship hour. Families will attend the 10:30 worship with children going to classes at 10:45 a.m.

In explaining the change, the minister, the Rev. Robert Clementz, pointed out that "the church must always be alert and open and ready to make such changes which will better serve the community and we hope that we will be providing better service with these changes."

Stedge Says Ulster Board Plays Politics on Trailers

TOWN OF ULSTER

Conservative-Democratic candidate for supervisor of the Town of Ulster, Robert Stedge, today accused the Town Board of playing politics with the health and safety of the trailer park residents and the property values of home owners.

Although for the past six months the town residents have crowded into board meetings to press for some relief in this matter, according to Stedge, the board has seen no urgency to act. According to the minutes of the Aug. 7 meeting, the town clerk had copies of the proposed ordinance for the board members and a date would be set. That was two and one-half months ago and still no date has been set for a hearing although the ordinance has been reviewed by the members of the town Board and others including Stedge.

Stedge stated, "On Aug. 17 I sent a list of suggestions to the town attorney and complimented him on an excellent job." The ordinance regulates mobile homes, mobile home parks, travel trailers, and trailer camps. Stedge stated further, "The town is in desperate need of this legislation which, if enforced, hopefully will do the job it proposes to do — specifically, to promote the health, safety, and general welfare of the community and to protect and preserve the property of the Town of Ulster and its inhabitants. The ordinance sets five acres as the minimum for a trailer park, thereby preventing trailer parks from sprouting up in any empty lots. The ordinance does not take the place of zoning, but it does set minimum land area requirements for single trailers.

The legislation primarily benefits those residents in the trailer parks because it sets a maximum of eight trailers per acre, makes provisions for 30 foot roads and requires 10 per cent of the gross park area to be set aside as open space. Other provisions include a minimum distance of 20 feet between trailers, setbacks from street and property lines of 30 and 20 feet respectively and sets the minimum area of a trailer lot at 3,600 square feet with a minimum dimension of 40 feet. The ordinance makes further provision for sanitation facilities, drainage, landscaping, and screening.

Discusses Values In Woodstock

WOODSTOCK

"I don't think anyone has all the answers, it will simply take lots of hard work."

This is how Birge Simmons, incumbent Republican candidate for assessor in the Town of Woodstock, explained the problems encountered by a part-time assessor in that township.

He said that more than 4,000 pieces of property need to be looked at each year and that assessments on a sizeable number of these are revised to reflect the fluctuation in land and building values.

He explained that many homes have sold higher than anticipated even after a reasonable increase in the assessment, attributing this to inflation and the difficulty of calculating the selling price of any house.

However, Simmons does feel that these problems are solvable. He said that with much work by all three of the town assessors, each property in the town can be examined and the assessment adjusted in accordance with the present market.

Simmons notes though, that if the total assessed value of the town increases, then the base for raising monies will be broader and therefore should not affect the individual taxpayer as much as if only a few properties were reassessed.

Simmons said that he does not think that reassessment of the town by an outside source would be feasible, because the cost would be quite high and in effect defeat its own purpose, and that it would take too much time.

Simmons has been an assessor in Woodstock for 15 years and feels that his experience will be of extreme importance in the months ahead.

Cobb on Zang Case; $250,000 Water Suit

KINGSTON

Supreme Court Justice George Cobb is expected to make a ruling on the $250,000 law suit case of William Zang against the Kingston Water Board.

Judge Cobb adjourned the case Friday. It charges that the board's refusal six years ago to supply water to a housing project planned by Zang left the developer in financial straits.

Named in the suit along with the board are the city of Kingston and former Mayor John J. Schwenk.

In the orginal charge, Zang, a Kingston resident, claimed that the Water Board had agreed to supply water to a planned housing development in the upper Pearl Street area that is half in the city and half in the Town of Ulster. He stated that the board agreed, but after intervention by Mayor Schwenk the board reversed its decision.

The case has been in litigation over the past six year, most recently in Supreme Court where Judge Cobb has been hearing the suit.

Bard College Drug Arrests

RED HOOK

State Police at Rhinebeck arrested two New York City men last night on the Bard College campus on charges of criminal possession of a narcotic and obstructing governmental justice.

Police reportedly found a small amount of marijuana on Chip Wilson, 19. The other arrest was on Wilson's companion Lee Yar Tung, 20, for reportedly obstructing justice. Neither man was a student at the college.

Wilson appeared before Judge Frank Martin and was remanded to Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail for the misdemeanor. Lee accompanied him after a bail of $250 was set.

Conservatives In Rosendale Slate Meeting

MAPLE HILL

The Rosendale Conservative Party is scheduled to hold a "meet the candidates night" here Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the community building where at least eight county and township office seekers will offer their views.

Party officials issued a invitation to all residents of the Seventh Legislative District, Rosendale town and village and the Town of Esopus, to attend.

Let's Help Midtown; Tyrrell Recommends

KINGSTON

James J. Tyrrell, Republican candidate for mayor said today, "we cannot afford to neglect any part of the city in favor of another section of our community. One of the most neglected parts of our city is the central section of Kingston.

The Republican candidate said, "We have established urban renewal areas in the uptown and downtown sections which include commercial development, housing and adequate parking. However to date, our central business district has been neglected and the new administration must work closely with the federal government, Small Business Administration, and other agencise in an effort to revitalize the intown commercial district.

Tyrrell said, "We must maintain all residential areas of our city including our Mid-town residential sections in order to prevent the depreciation of property which has fostered the need for new development in other sections of the city. During the present administration, the Democratic Party promised adequate parking facilities and the rehabilitation of substandard housing in our midtown area but these promises have not been fulfilled. With the proper planning and assistance we will be able to revitalize our midtown commercial district and protect residential properties in this area from neglect and decay."

"We must remember that we are one City," Tyrrell continued, "and we must make every effort to service all residents of Kingston regardless of location.

Tyrrell also called for "the need in the city for a proper human relations program benefiting those who are promoting good human relations, as well as the recipients of such a program."

Tyrrell stated that understanding and good working relationships among the members of the Human Relations Commission must first be attained, if they are to function effectively. The Republican candidate noted that some problems concerning misunderstandings in the past have hindered Human Relations Programs and he would like to see effective human relations among the members of the commission.

Under his administration, Tyrrell concluded he would see to it that the members of the Human Relations Commission would eliminate the internal problems and therefore deal with the external problems whereby the Commission could work directly and effectively with minority groups and all residents of the city.

MRS. WALTER GEORGE SCHMIDT
(Lakeside Studio)

Franklin-Schmidt Nuptials Announced

Old Dutch Church, Kingston, was the setting of the wedding of Miss Joan Marie Franklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Franklin, 19½ Golf Terrace, Kingston, and Walter George Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmidt, RD 5, Box 243, Kingston, on Saturday, Oct. 18. The couple exchanged wedding vows during a candlelight service.

The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool officiated at the double ring ceremony. Cindy Jones was organist and Jack Hill, soloist.

The altar was decorated with white gladioli and blue chrysanthemums. The family pews were marked with floral arrangements and white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of peau de soie fashioned with a high neckline and front panel of Alencon lace. The bishop sleeves were cuffed with matching lace and the train was chapel length. She wore a stylized headpiece with pale blue ribbon and a cathedral length silk illusion veil. She carried a mixed bouquet of miniature carnations, stephanotis, abbey roses and blue and apricot pompons.

Miss Karlyne Lutke, former resident of Kingston, 219 Queensbury Drive, Huntsville, Ala., served as maid of honor. She wore a turquoise gown encircled with a narrow sash of self fabric. The bishop sleeves were cuffed with matching lace and she wore a stylized headpiece with long back streamers. She carried a colonial nosegay of apricot pompons with a candle in the center and apricot bows and streamers.

The Misses Nina Cummings, Saugerties; Helen Conerty, Rifton Terrace, Rifton; and Patty Donnelly, niece of the bridegroom, RD 5, Box 245, Kingston, were attendants. Their apricot gowns were styled identically to that of the honor attendant's and they carried colonial nosegays of blue pompons, centered with a candle, and blue bows and streamers.

Miss Lauren Kent, 355 Wilbar Drive, Stratford, Conn., served as flower girl for her cousin. Her apricot gown was styled similarly to that of the other attendants' and she carried a miniature nosegay of blue pompons.

Albert Schmidt, brother of the bridegroom, P.O. Box 164, Bloomington, was best man. Ushers were Andrew Galietta, 14 Van Buren Street, Beacon, cousin of the bride; Paul Schmidt, RD 5, Box 243, Kingston and Edward Schmidt, P.O. Box 119, Bloomington, both brothers of the bridegroom. Scott Kent cousin of the bride, 355 Wilbar Drive, Stratford, Conn., served as ringbearer.

A reception for 125 guests was held at the Capri.

For her wedding trip to Florida and Nassau, the bride wore a navy blue knit suit, with a white hat and red accessories and a red, white, and blue corsage.

Mrs. Schmidt is a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School and she attended Dutchess Community College.

Her husband was graduated from Kingston High School and is employed by Hercules Powder, Inc. He is Spec. 4 in the U.S. Army Reserves.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt will make their home at 138 St. James Street, Kingston.

GIFT SHOP FOR VETERANS — Mrs. Helen Chambers (L-R) Mrs. Agnes Elgin and Mrs. Irene Tanner, discuss plans for the American Legion Auxiliary gift shop for veterans at the VA Hospital in Albany. The shop will be open December 1 and 2. Through the gift shop, more than 5,000 gifts for approximately 1,000 hospitalized veterans from the Korean and Vietnam conflicts are provided. These are free of charge. All gifts are wrapped, tagged and sent to the veteran's home in time for Christmas morning The work is done entirely by volunteer workers of the Legion Auxiliaries. Ulster County Auxiliaries are now working on this rehabilitation program. They will be sending gifts for men, boys, women, girls and infants. Mrs. George Shea, county rehabiliation chairman, invites all residents, Legion and Auxiliary members to open house on Sunday, Nov. 30 at the Hospital from 2 to 4 p. m. for a first preview of the Gift Shop. (Medical Illustration Service).

Educational Secretaries At Mid-Hudson Meeting

Educational Secretaries of the Kingston Area attended a conference sponsored by the Mid-Hudson Study Council at the New Paltz Central High School on Friday, Oct. 17.

The general session in the morning was entitled "Education Law of Today and the School Secretary." Dr. William J. Hageny, Professor of Education at the State University College at New Paltz was the speaker and Mrs. Virginia Burrow of the Monroe Woodbury Central Schools was chairman of the session. Individual group sessions were then held. At the Group I session Lawrence J. Keene, Director of Counseling and Guidance Services at Orange County Community College spoke on "The School Secretary and Good Human Relations," or — "What to Do Until the Principal Comes." The chairman was Patricia Courneyer of Middletown Public Schools.

The Group II session "A Question Box of Retirement" was led by James Terry, Information representative of the New York State Employees Retirement System from Albany. Doris Tibbs of the Poughkeepsie City Schools was chairman of this group.

"A New Rung in the Career Ladder: School Operations Secretary" was the title of the Group III session. This was addressed by David Trachtenburg, Director of Instruction of the Middletown Public Schools and the chairman was Mrs. Virginia Burrow.

The Group IV session was addressed by Hyman Gardlin, Field Representative of the Social Security Office in Kingston. The chairman was Mrs. Ann Smith from Ulster County Community College. "Very Truly Yours: The World of Art" was discussed in the fifth session, by Mrs. Rose Rosen of the Middletown Public Schools. The chairman was Florence Gray of the Wappinger Falls Central Schools. The last group had the title of "Association Group Insurance." Joseph Coogan, Regional Director of Mutual of Omaha addressed this group and Mrs. Hilda Davidson of Hyde Park Central Schools was the chairman.

Another General Session was held. The title was "The Right Combination" and this group was addressed by Harold Schultz, Associate Sponsor, Dale Carnegie Courses, Mid-Hudson Valley of Poughkeepsie. Mrs. Hilda Davidson was chairman.

The Educational Secretaries of the Kingston Area held their regular Fall meeting on Monday, Oct. 20 in the cafeteria of the George Washington School. The meeting was preceded by a covered dish supper served at 6:30. The committee for the supper consisted of Mrs. Elise Palen and Mrs. Helen Webber, co-chairmen and Mrs. Rose Grant, Mrs. Anna McGowan and Mrs. Anne Nicoletti.

It was announced by Mrs. Margaret McCardle, president of the Educational Secretaries, that the club's annual scholarship has been awarded to Miss Donna Billone who is now attending Ulster County Community College. Mrs. Louise Prochaska reported on the candy sale which finances the scholarship fund. State Conference reports were made by Miss Elizabeth Dierks, Miss Louise Prochaska and Mrs. McCardel. They attended the State Conference held recently in Syracuse, N.Y.

The Educational Secretaries of the Kingston Area represents the secretarial and clerical employes of the Kingston Schools Consolidated.

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK C. SPALT

Spalt Anniversary Told

On Saturday, Oct. 18, a surprise anniversary party was given in the Kingston Power Boat Clubhouse for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Spalt of 219 Bayard Street, Port Ewen. The occasion marked the couple's 35th wedding anniversary.

The party was given by their children, Mrs. Charles Hill of Cottekill and Dale Spalt of Port Ewen.

Mr. and Mrs. Spalt were married on October 21, 1934 in the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on Wurts Street, this city by the Rev. Russell Genzel. Their attendants were Henry Dean of Poughkeepsie, best man, and Mrs. Spalt's sister, Rose Ramming of Kingston, honor attendant. Ushers were Oscar Spalt, cousin of Mr. Spalt of New Jersey and John Houghtaling of Port Ewen.

Guests attended from Albany, Dover Plains, Poughkeepsie, Cottekill, Port Ewen and Kingston.

Netefors of New Paltz Host Informal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Netefors of North New Paltz hosted an informal dinner last week at Reggie's Inn, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Percely of South Orange, N. J. Mr. Percely is president of the New York-New Jersey Chapter, National Fourth Infantry (IVY) Division Association of which Mr. Netefor is a member. Netefor landed with the Fourth Division on Utah Beach, Normany on D-Day at 5:30 in the first wave as a gunner with B Battery, 29th Field Artillery.

Among those at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Martinolich of New Paltz, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kennedy of Port Ewen, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duffy of Boston, Mrs. Lorraine Chandler of Schaghticoke, international authority on dog pedigrees, widow of Paul Chandler, a former member of the 4th Division, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton E. Mess, Mt. Wolfe, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. John Neola, Schenectady.

Doing the Right Thing

BEREAVED FAMILY'S FEELINGS COME FIRST

Dear Mrs. Post.: It is the custom where I live that the family of a deceased person receive callers at the funeral home, usually on one or two afternoons and evenings prior to the funeral. During these calling hours the casket is almost always open. In the face of these strongly entrenched traditions, do you feel it would be rude for a family in mourning in this area of the country to (1) not be present during the visitation hours and instead be represented by a close family friend serving as host? (2) have the casket closed at all times? — Mrs. M.J.

Dear Mrs. J: (1) The entire family need not be present during the visiting hours. However, two or three members of the family should be there at all times. If the family is small, one member of the family should be there at all times. (2) Unless one's religion has specific regulations, I feel that the matter of the open coffin should be settled according to the bereaved family's feelings. Choosing the way which will give them most comfort, or be less painful, is more important that local custom.

Girl Keeps Garter Thrown by Groom

Dear Mrs. Post: At a wedding I attended recently, both the bridal bouquet and the garter were thrown. When the fellow who caught the garter put it on the girl who caught the bouquet, she kept the garter. Was she correct in doing this, or should she have given the garter back? — Toni

Dear Toni: When the fellow who caught the garter put it on the girl's leg, he was giving — not lending — her a compliment. He would have no further use for it in any case if he kept it, but to the girl it would serve as a memento of the occasion.

First Husband's Name Dropped After Remarriage

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a friend whose maiden name is Kathryn Greene. She married John Jones, so I assume her initials were K.G.J. Now, Kathryn divorced John and married Bill Crane. Are her initials K.J.C. or G.G.C., or what?—Linda

Dear Linda: When a girl marries for the second time, she drops her first husband's name entirely. Therefore, Kathryn's initials are now K.G.C.

CHARLES A. VAN VOORHIS of New Salem Road, Port Ewen, who celebrated his 90th birthday last weekend with relatives and friends at a son's house, Charles A. Van Voorhis Jr., in Woodstock. He has four other sons, Leslie of Cold Springs, Norm of Cold Springs, Edwin in Hartsdale, Ambrose on New Salem Road and Byron, also of New Salem Road. Mr. Van Voorhis received a congratulatory message from President and Mrs. Richard Nixon.

REHABILITATION PROJECT — Five recliner chairs have been donated by the American Legion Auxiliaries of Ulster County for use in the therapy of paraplegic patients at Veterans Hospital in Albany. This is only one of many rehabilitation projects sponsored by the Legion Auxiliaries. On hand for the presentation were (L-R) C. Ackerman, American Legion representative; Mrs. George Morrissey, American Legion Auxiliary VAS representative; R. A. Kerber, hospital director; and Mrs. John Mazzie, past department president.

Wildlife Series Program

"Nature's Plans and Puzzles" is the subject of the year's second Audubon Wildlife series program to be held at Orange County Community College in Middletown on Tuesday, October 28.

Naturalist C.P. Lyons will narrate his color film study of the native wilderness, elusive mammals, and unusual insects, birds, reptiles and amphibians of the Canadian Province of British Columbia at 7:30 p.m. in OCCC's Orange Hall auditorium. Public admission is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for students.

For over 20 years an officer in British Columbia's department of recreation and conservation, Mr. Lyons has had wide experience in problems dealing with conservation. Many of today's large provincial parks were first examined by him, their boundaries set, and development plans prepared. He supervised clearing projects made necessary by a giant hydro-electric development of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

The "Stops of Interest" program along the highways of British Columbia was his design and responsibility. The restoration of the pioneer gold mining town of Barkerville in the Cariboo came under his direction from its start in 1958 until 1963 when he left government service to free lance in photography and television.

Turn Your Clock Back

Daylight saving time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday. When you retire this evening, turn your clock back one hour. The hour of sleep you gain is in compensation for the 60 minutes you lost in April when you turned your timepieces ahead.

The annual fall business of getting back on standard time begins Sunday. In order to get in tune with the rest of the folks, set your watches and clocks back one hour when retiring tonight.

P.W. Release Terms

North Vietnam tried to use the appeal of two American women, who sought news about their war prisoner husbands, for propaganda purposes. Sue Shuman and Martha Doss of Virginia Beach, Va., were hold that Hanoi would not release their war prisoner husbands unless they demonstrated against the war. Of course, the ladies refused.

Mrs. Shuman and Mrs. Doss wanted to obtain the release of all the sick and wounded prisoners and spent 75 minutes pleading their case before two members of the North Vietnamese peace delegation in Paris. They were told they would have to wait until all the American troops are out of Vietnam and the war is over, but that if they wanted to speed their husbands' release, they should demonstrate against the war.

The North Vietnamese said that no prisoners would be released until after the war ends. Sick and wounded prisoners are released only through a negotiated prisoner exchange, in which prisoners of both camps are traded, presumably so that there would be no advantage to either side. This procedure is also true of prisoners in good health. Normally, they are traded as a part of the war settlement.

But to ask two sorrowing women, come to inquire about the health of their husbands, to demonstrate against the war in order to secure their release, is downright blackmail. Mrs. Shuman and Mrs. Doss no doubt were tempted. But they knew their husbands would not want their release on such terms. Much as they wanted to see their husbands, they could not agree to betray the cause for which they had fought. The price was too great.

The experience should warn other wives and parents, sick with doubt about their sons and husbands who are prisoners of war, not to expect mercy, but insult, from the enemy. North Vietnam's reply also showed demonstrators all too clearly whom they are helping.

No Way to Fight Inflation

While the nation is bearing the burden of the high interest, tight money and creeping unemployment is checking inflation, the House of Representatives has chosen this time to vote a $4.3 billion pay raise for two million federal employes, including a 5.4 per cent increase to 700,000 postal workers who got a 4.1 per cent raise in July.

President Nixon's threat of a veto did not deter Rep. Morris K. Udall, Arizona Democrat, a ranking member of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, from pushing the measure. Postal employes are already lobbying for votes to override a veto.

Not only would the $4.3 billion raise seriously undercut the nation's fight on inflation, but the President warned it would require elimination of nearly all Saturday mail delivery and post office services, and be in effect a mandate to reduce abruptly the number of federal employes.

There is a possible advantage in passing the postal pay increase. It could make postal service so bad that the public will be up in arms and force Congress to vote the replacement of the politically-rife Post Office Department by the government corporation proposed by two Presidents and their postmasters general. If the post office is put on a business basis, pay increases will be a matter of collective bargaining within the framework of a corporation, not subject to political whims.

Dip, or Recession?

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy sees a moderate business downturn in the first half of 1970, he told the Business Council of heads of more than 100 of the country's biggest corporations. His view was corroborated by the council's own advisory panel of 20 business economists. They predicted a real leveling off, perhaps slightly on the down side, not much of a dip.

Government and business economists were agreed that anti-inflation restraints are beginning "to bite" and the 9-year business boom is being interrupted.

These views were not unanimous. Elsewhere, Nathaniel Goldfinger, director of research for organized labor's AFL-CIO, saw the danger of a recession growing from week to week. He struck the only sour note in the debate. It is our judgment that curbing inflation takes precedence over all economic and social matters and once accomplished will help correct the rest.

Henry J. Taylor Says

The Battle of El Alamein

On October 24, 1942, the British began the Battle of Alamein. I was there on that starlit dawn and the advancing morning seemed set like a blue tile in the window of the desert blockhouse where I had passed.

Suddenly the Highland Pipers sounded "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" and the dead-tired troops rose out of their desert trenches — beginning a forward assault that never stopped until, years later, we reached Berlin.

Prime Minister Churchill called the El Alamein victory "the hinge of fate." "Before Alamein we never had a victory," he said. "After Alamein we never had a defeat." And field Marshal Erwin Rommel reports in "The Rommel Papers:" "Alamein turned the tide in Africa against us and, in fact, probably represented the turning point in the whole vast struggle."

In 1934 Hitler confided to German writer Hermann Rauschning that he intended to fight England. He added: "we must first proceed step by step against pivotal continental countries. That we will succeed is guaranteed by Britain's lack of firmness." He repeated this to the German General Staff on November 5, 1937.

On March 14, 1938, Hitler annexed Austria. Then on the identical day in 1939 he issued an ultimatum to neighboring Czechoslovakia. And on August 24, 1939, he was ready (and so was the Soviet Union) for his absolutely indispensable step — the signing of a mutual nonaggression pact with Stalin. As a British diplomat said to me in Berlin on the day the Nazi-Communist pact was signed: "All the 'isms' are 'wasms.'"

At 4:40 a.m. five days later Germany attacked Poland by surprise. The Germans threw 72 divisions against brave Poland, more than the Western powers have today in NATO. Then, after British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced the war on September 3, the so-called phony war, now largely forgotten, with little or no battle activity, lasted nearly a year.

On June 14, 1940, the Germans entered Paris — unopposed. The Battle of Britain, in turn, is defined as the six summer weeks in 1940 when the Nazi Luftwaffe lost its horrible try for an all-out kill of England. The 1940 Britain that defied the Nazis was the Britain of David Low's cartoon: "If necessary, alone!" It was necessary, and it was alone.

Then on Sunday, June 22, 1941 Hitler struck Russia. The abhorred Nazi power stretched from the Atlantic to the boundaries of Central Asia and from the Arctic to the Nile, and the swastika was hoisted over the entire Mediterranean.

El Alamein stands at the gate to Alexandria and Cairo. The battle was fought on a 50-mile front. The whirling that cut and bit in the searing wind only looked like sand. Actually, it was pulverised sea shells from the prehistoric bottom of the Mediterranean. Far from being a billowing desert, the terrain underneath was as hard and flat as a slab of marble.

Lieut. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery (knighted to become the Earl of Alamein) described the battle as having three phases: the "break-in," the "fight," the "break-out." The problem, he told me as the dawn broke, was to apply these phases against the enemy's forward defense and immediate counterattack. "But," Montgomery added, "it is vital to gain at once in my first blow the momentum needed for victory. Everything depends on how this battle begins."

Hitler was running the war from his Rastenburg, East Prussia, headquarters, which he himself called the "wolfsschanze"—the "wolf's lair"—buried in a dense tangle of fir trees that surrounded the drab buildings and a small pond.

Rommel, in turn, had a burning contempt for Hitler's military sycophants in remote Rastenburg. He found them boring and cowardly. "Weit von Schlact gibt alte Krieger" — "Far from the battle makes old soldiers," said Rommel.

The wildly victorious Rommel was absent in Germany on sick leave at the beginning of the great battle. When Montomery made his move and Rastenburg got the word, Hitler personally telephoned Rommel in the middle of the night. But Rommel could not reach Egypt before Montgomery's first decisive blow was struck. Actually, Rommel did not lose the Battle of El Alamein. He was not even there — until too late.

Moratorium Youngsters Now Have New Tool—Power

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Moratorium epilogue: The young men and women who set up Oct. 15 have now created a powerful organizational weapon.

Now that they have been "successful," the temptation will be to use this weapon again and again for one reason or another.

The issue is not Vietnam, race, poverty or injustice. The issue now is power.

Success breeds temptation; power, once created, is inevitably used.

But they run the danger their image will be destroyed by violent members of the Students for a Democratic society. That is, if the protests of mid-November get out of control, they could destroy the Moratorium of Oct. 15.

But the strength of these ex-McCarthyite youngsters is not shallow. They have the names of thousands of people to call on. They have lists of donors. They know which of their lieutenants can produce and which cannot.

They have learned the techniques of political psychology — the subtle differences in words that arouse people to action or don't (their use of Moratorium rather than strike).

They have ready groups they can throw on the streets. They have strong vocal allies spotted among college presidents and faculty, in Congress, among some scientists and in the literary world.

These youthful organizers were surprisingly successful in some presidential primaries in the fall of 1968, though encumbered by a fourth-rate candidate in Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

They drew surprising advance public support in the Oct. 15 Moratorium, gathering many prestigious names en route. (Despite the numbers in opposition, note how the campaign was managed so that by and large the Moratorium's opponents kept strangely silent.)

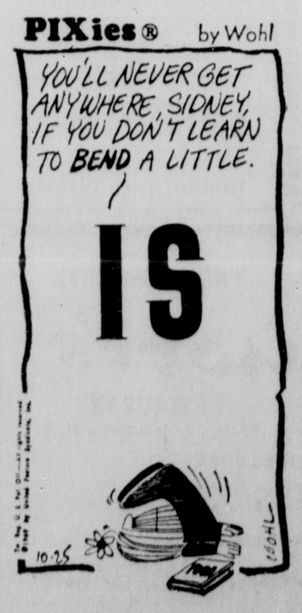

The Moratorium youngsters have given the appearance of achieving the removal of Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey as director of Selective Service, of reducing the draft calls, and even perhaps of forcing a review of U.S. policies in Vietnam as a posible prelude to increasing the withdrawal of U.S. troops.

It can be argued that these shifts would have been made with no Moratorium. But timing inevitably has given the Moratorium men and many observers the feel of victory. In these matters, the feel is what is important.

Here we have something quite different from the amateurism of the Students for a Democratic Society and the Black Panthers. As the Viet Cong have shown, strength comes from organization and power, not primarily from military prowess.

By contrast, the SRS has shown no firm organizational base. SDS techniques have been crude and sometimes self-defeating. They have within their groups the divisiveness which could lead to enervating splits.

In the ex-McCarthy Moratorium planners we have something much more serious —people who pay attention to the nuts and bolts of politics.

Jack Anderson Says

U.S. Army Educates Foreign Specialists in Poison Gas Use

WASHINGTON — Pentagon officials aren't advertising it, but the Army is instructing foreign specialists in chemical and biological warfare.

A total of 550 aliens from 36 nations — including Egypt, Yugoslavia and South Vietnam — have taken 2-to-36-week courses at the army's Chemical School at Ft. McClellan, Ala.

Although fewer than half a dozen Egyptians have learned about poison gas in the U.S., these key offiers reportedly used their ominous American know-how to help plan the poison-gas attacks upon Yemen in 1967. Representatives of the International Red Cross verified that Egyptian pilots dropped canisters of poison gases from two MIG fighters and nine Ilyushin bombers over Ketaf, a remote Yemen community. Some 110 villagers gagged, coughed and bled to death.

The Egyptians, like other foreign specialists, supposedly were taught only "defense" against the hideous sprays and germs. As part of the "defense" courses at Ft. McClellan, however, they received expert instruction in the poisonous qualities of the gases, how these gases can be disseminated and which gases are most effective under various conditions.

The U.S. nondiscriminately has trained Arab and Israeli officers alike to "defend" themselves against poison-gas attacks from each other. In addition to the Egyptians, specialists from Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia have attended the Army's Chemical School.

The only Communists who have been admitted into the secret chemical classes at Ft. McClellan are the Yugoslavs. However, close allies, such as the British, Austrailians and Canadians, have been given a deeper insight into our chemical and biological warfare technology at the super-secret Dugway Proving Ground, Utah — site of nerve gas tests on animals.

Congressional incredulity over American storage of nerve gases abroad and the shipment of lethal gases inside the US. has now raised doubts about the training of foreign troops in gas and bacteriological lore. For the Pentagon, as in the dreadful old myth of the sowing of dragons' teeth, has seeded the world with poison-gas and germ-warfare experts.

Muzzling Agnew

As delicatley as possible, Republican leaders have suggested to the White House that Spiro Agnew, like a model Vice President, should be seen more and heard less.

At a political strategy session behind closed White House doors, GOP National Chairman Rogers C.B. Morton called attention to editorials in the Washington Post and New York Times blistering Agnew for his intemperate remarks about the anitwar demonstrators.

The Vice President had suggested in New Orleans that "a spirit of national masochism" was "encouraged by an effete corps of imprudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals." He had described the recent Moratorium as "an emotional purgative for those who feel the need to cleanse themselves of their lack of ability to offer a constructive solution to the problem."

Morton didn't go quite as far as the Washington Post, which suggested that President Nixon "repudiate the excesses of his Vice President or silence him or — ideally — do both."

More tactfully, the GOP party chief suggested it wasn't good politics to engage in verbal warfare with the antiwar claque. The best answer to the demonstrators, he said softly, would be the President's November 3 speech on the Vietnam war.

Sen. Hugh Scott and Rep. Jerry Ford, the Senate and House Republican leaders, agreed that it would be better to let the President do the talking on this sensitive subject.

Sen. John Tower, the tough little Texan, disagreed. Outside of Washington and New York City, he said, the reaction to the Vice President's cracks wouldn't be as critical. The consensus, however, was that maybe Agnew should be urged politely to keep a governor on his tongue.

Note: Morton told the party leaders that they stand a good chance of picking up two more Republican governors in the November 4 election. The private polls show, he said, that Linwood Holton could win in Virginia and that William Cahill is slightly ahead in New Jersey.

Tobacco Talk

The big broadcasting companies want to keep their financial statements wreathed as long as possible with the old gold of tobacco advertising.

The tobacco companies agreed under the hard prodding of Senate consumer watchdogs Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., and Frank Moss, D-Utah, to pull their cigarette ads off TV and radio by September 1970.

But with close to $300 million a year in tobacco ads at stake, the broadcasters managed to blow smoke in the face of the public interest. They have been quietly urging the tobacco industry to keep the cigarette ads on for two more years. And they have suggested to some Senators that four more years of cigarette ads would be even more reasonable.

While tobacco men have gone to the Justice Department to get an antitrust exemption so they can all kick the radio-TV habit, the broadcasters have been tarring and nicotining. In their own talks with Justice, they have argued that the tobacco industry should not be allowed to pull out of TV and radio without agreeing to end ads in newspapers and other media, too.

Justice Department antitrusters rejected this novel scheme. But the merchants of the public airwaves are still flexing their muscles throughout Washington to prove that they'd rather fight than switch to cancer-free advertising.

Even if You Win, You Lose

Vietnam War Will Be Last For United States in Asia

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Foreign policy specialists and observers, watching the Vietnam war and the rising stir against it, are saying privately that when it is truly over this may be the chief heritage: Never again, in a small war, are American fighting men likely to set foot on the soil of a troubled Asian land in need of help.

This judgement is intended to reflect the developing attitudes of both Asians and Americans toward the nature and the already visible consequences of the war, even though at this moment its final outcome is not discernible.

A high-placed diplomat representing an Asian country not unfriendly to the United States expressed a view evidently common among some of our friends in that part of the world:

"Vietnam has destroyed the chance that any Asian country ever again will ask for major ground assistance from the United States.

"Your huge presence — and massive firepower — virtually wrecks the society it is intended to help."

An American of great stature agreed with this:

"There are friendly South Vietnamese who deplore the fact their country is being destroyed by this war. . . An enormous reconstruction job lies ahead. . . .

"Elsewhere in Southeast Asia, the view is widespread that modern warfare as we practice it visits such damage upon a land that even if you win, you lose."

This same American, and others questioned on the likely postwar heritage of our involvement in Vietnam, asserted also that the intensity of U.S. protest today will surely be nearly as strong a bar to "another Vietnam." Said this acknowledged expert:

"The reaction to Vietnam has been such a powerful one that it will be a very long time before the United States sends ground troops to that part of the world.

"Aside from other aspects, there is a growing feeling here that our national security is not truly involved in Southeast Asia, that we have not been fighting a war that affects our own vital interests.

"It could be a very different matter, however, in Latin America. This, obviously, is an area where trouble would constitute a greater danger to us. If an outside power, for example, sought to take over Mexico — with the attendant threat of installing nuclear missiles — we could not abide it. The same would hold true for countries stretching south of there."

The feeling among the queried specialists was that the overwhelming majority of Americans, perhaps all but the "fringe left" would support intervening U.S. military endeavors that close to home — and also in a Western Europe so tied to us traditionally and so clearly vital to the stability of the free world.

But these areas are perceived now as the probable limits beyond which we cannot go in the future. Not only Asia, but Africa and possibly the more remote sectors of South America are seen as barred to direct U.S. military undertakings.

Nevertheless, neither the quoted Asian diplomat nor others questioned think this bar means the end of crucial American influence or even assistance in such parts of the world. Said the diplomat:

"Your nuclear umbrella will continue to be immensely helpful to us in Asia. It is our protection against nuclear blackmail from Red China."

This Asian and several knowledgeable American sources agreed, too, that if "brush-fire" wars erupted in partly defenseless small lands we might be asked for advice, counsel and a supporting stream of airlifted supplies (on the model of our aid to India against China).

There are other suggestions — our encouragement to regional defense pacts (minus the United States) and the development of a wholly professional, volunteer fighting force for any necessary overseas use. Yet nothing proposed resembles the scarring adventure in Vietnam.

TEEN SCENE: Pre-Halloween Advice to Vandals

by LEI

Probably there isn't a person reading this paper—and that includes you, your parents and the nice little old lady across the street—who hasn't at some time performed an act of vandalism. There's something to the act of destruction that appeals to all of us at one time or another. So we draw mustaches on political billboards, break windows in desterted houses, or toss beer bottles at a brick wall.

Of course, part of the fun of vandalism is that it's forbidden, but a rare incident is—almost—to be expected. Unfortunately, some young people are ruining this fine old sport by running it into the ground. They take it beyond the prankster stage into something that can be dangerous, expensive, illegal, and senseless.

Other Side of Crayon

Scribbling on walls, usually bathroom, seems to be fairly universal, and sometimes the results almost approach being literature. If the wall needed painting to start with, it can have a decorative value, if you're looking for an excuse. On the other hand, spray-painting an obsenity on the side of a store makes very little sense. The owner will have to pay to have the wall painted. So what? So he will raise his prices, that's what. And he'll have a pretty shady view of these so-and-so kids that have nothing to do but go around ruining other people's property.

Recently, there have been many acts of destruction in area parks, stadiums, and playgrounds. Whoever does these things isn't thinking. These areas are paid for by the taxpayers for the enjoyment of everyone. Probably the vandals themselves have spent happy hours as children at such playgrounds, and later at sports events and entertainment features in stadiums. When these areas are damaged, not only are they closed to everyone, but sometimes people are injurd trying to use the damaged facilities. There's nothing funny about a little kid who gets cut with broken glass, or a person hurt trying to repair a damaged stadium, you know. The repair bill goes on the tax bill, and you end up paying for your prank out of your pocket, in sales tax, cigarette tax, and hidden tax.

Stealing gates could be said to be fun—if you aren't the owner of the gate. Stealing road signs, warning signals, and flares can kill someone who didn't see the danger until too late. There's nothing funny about a corpse. And it could be your sweetheart, relative, or best friend who got wasted. If it isn't yours, it will be somebody's. And you won't feel very proud when you read about the accident, will you?

Sometimes vandalism occurs not as part of an aimless attempt at having fun, but as part of an organized, or disorganized, protest. Groups or individuals who feel called to express their views by destruction should remember that they are doing their opinions a disservice. Some groups think that destruction will pressure the opposition into yielding a point—more likely, it will make them angry, and less willing to see any value in a point of view that would lead someone to destroy, hurt, and frighten.

Stop and Think

So before you impulsively vandalize something, stop for five seconds, and think. First, think of the penalty under the law for malicious mischief if you get caught—and it's been known to happen. Then, think if your prank could possibly injure a person or animal. If it could, don't—it isn't worth it. Then consider the cost or repairing whatever you're about to do, and who's going to pay for it? How would you feel if someone did it to you? (One teenaged boy complained bitterly when the seats to his car were slit and the windshield broken. Investigating fuzz found that the young man had left his car parked on a dark street while he and his friends wrecked a laundramat—a rare case when the punishment exactly matched the crime!) Why are you doing it anyway? Why does it seem like such a good idea right now, and will it seem as much fun when you recall it in 20 or 30 years?

Finally, if you've had your fun—assuming it was fun—why don't you try, just once, going back the next day and trying to set things straight again? You wouldn't have to admit that you had anything to do with the prank—and you might even get thanked for being so helpful. Just keep your face straight if you're told how nice it is to discover that all teenagers aren't like the destructive, nasty, lazy little wretches who wrecked things in the first place.

PLAN SERVICE FOR PEACE — Members of the Temple Emanuel Youth Group discuss plans for Service for Peace with Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn. Conferring are Judy Motzkin, Sara Freeman and Beth Newman. The service will be held at the temple Oct. 31. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Temple Teens Set Peace Program

KINGSTON — The Youth Group of Temple Emanuel will conduct a Sabbath service for Peace Friday evening, Oct. 31, starting 7:30 o'clock.

Youth members participating in organizing and publicizing the service are Beth Newman, Sara Freeman, Betty Winkler, Rona Freeman, Judy Motzkin, Julie Paige, Larry Breuer, and Rickey Kamen.

Guest speakers for the occasion are the Rev. William A. Studwell, minister of Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church and president of the Kingston Area Council of Churches; Raymond A. Nelson, headmaster of the Ulster Academy and Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, spiritual leader of the congregation.

All young people, Jewish and non-Jewish who are interested in participating in this special service for peace may attend a planning meeting to be held Sunday 9 p.m. at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. The next regular meeting of the Temple Youth Group will be held just prior to the planning session at 7 p.m.

Youth in News--- Election Activity

There may be snow on the mountains which ring Onteora Central High School at Boiceville but activities are really heating up indoors.

Ralph Crotty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Crotty of Chichester, has been elected to serve as area vice president of the Distributive Education Clubs of America. DECA as it is known is a nationwide youth organization whose purpose is to develop future leaders in the fields of marketing and distribution.

Ralph, a senior at Onteora Central School, will serve local chapters in Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, and Sullivan counties.

Ralph was a delegate to the North Atlantic Regional Conference held in Washington, D. C. and the State Leadership Conference held at the Concord Hotel. At the area level he was a first place winner in both the store layout and display judging contests.

At Onteora, he has been active in sports as well as serving the past two years as an officer in the local chapter.

The interest shown in the American Field Service program by the students at Onteora Central High School is heartening to note.

Newly elected president, Thomas Peekema, reports the local student club is ready to assume an active role in this year's activities.

Presently planning a Halloween celebration, enthusiastic members can easily be spotted at local football games with their colorful AFS balloons.

RALPH CROTTY

With the help of voluntary workers and contributors, AFS sponsors International Scholarship Programs for High School students. This year 5,500 students in more than 40 countries will come to know their own country and the rest of the world a little better.

Karuna Anuntkosol, of Thailand, a member of the Onteora Class of 1970, is this year's AFS student.

Betsy Warneke is serving as the school club's vice president, Wendy Stern as secretary and Barbara Buoymaster, treasurer.

New officers are spotlighted on a county-wide basis too as local teen members of Catholic Youth Organization attend the eighth annual archdiocese convention at Grossingers. Festivities got underway last night with more than 1,000 delegates from Staten Island, Manhattan, Bronx, Westchester, Putnam, Sullivan, Ulster, Rockland, Orange and Dutchess Counties signing in.

Highlight of the weekend will be the Gold Ticket Banquet and Cotillion tonight. All of which leads up to the archdiocesan election session Sunday morning.

Ulster County candidates who will be campaigning vigorously for regional posts are Rita Mary Senor, county council president; Debbie. Simmons, vice president of the Ulster County Council and Debbie Swan, Ulster's treasurer.

More than 50 delegates from the county will be on hand to lend their support in the campaign and convention floor demonstrations for favorite daughters.

The Generation Gap, Teenage Morality, Drinking, What's Your Hang Up and Where Are We Going are among the many workshop topics proposed by teen delegates from the entire archdiocese. The overall convention theme is Second Look at Youth. Parish club delegates will present conclusions and resolutions for ratification by the assembly.

At the conclusion of the convention Sunday there will be a community Mass at which the successful slate will be installed in ofice.

Coffee House Concept Offers 'Quiet Place'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Young people may dig the loud decibels generated at discotheques, but they still need a place to talk — a quiet place.

Increasing numbers of young men and women across the country are finding that the best place to get together for conversation is the coffee house.

"It's the answer to our need," said 19-year-old Kathy Kovacs who last year organized a coffee house in Columbus, Ohio.

"We needed a place to be comfortable and talk, and the coffee house is a place where kids can go and have intelligent conversations in comfortable surroundings—not like the loud psychedelic discotheque," Kathy said.

Kathy, visiting New York City to accept for her coffee house, "The Wrong Number," the first prize in the National Coffee House Awards program, sponsored by the National Coffee Association, said that there are currently 1,200 noncommarcial coffee houses in the United States.

They are sponsored, she said, by religious, civic and other community groups, but are run by the young people themselves.

Kathy and five other members of the North Broadway Methodist Church in Columbus started their coffee house in February 1968 after they realized there was "no organized church activity to bring us together regularly after we graduated from high school."

The group has now swelled to 30 members, between the ages of 17-28 "but the coffee house is open to the public and many, many more come to it on the Wednesday and Friday nights we are open," Kathy said.

The coffee house, located in a church-owned house, was named "The Wrong Number," Kathy explained, because "the telephone theme seemed the essence of person-to-person communication."

"On Wednesday nights we have guest speakers," Kathy said, "and they've included ministers, rabbis and a man from the vice squad who talked to us about drugs. Friday nights we have entertainment by maybe a singer, a poet, a guitar player or a small band."

Kathy, who lives with her mother and is a secretary, said that the coffee house's "person-to-person contact must be working—we've had three engagements among kids who met here."

The young church members who run the coffee house, the "Single Young Adults Club," also sponsor activities for children from low-income area church congregations. "We take them to movies or shows and then bring them back to the coffee house for refreshments," said Kathy, who is a "big sister" to an underprivileged child she met through these activities.

Kathy suggested that young people interested in starting a coffee house in their area write to: Coffee Information Service, 300 East 44th Street, New York, N.Y., 10017, for their free booklet entitled "Do-It-Yourself Coffe House." It gives details on how to start a coffee house.

Evening of Backstage Theater

NEW PALTZ — Senior Seminar students representing the school districts of Onteora, Saugerties, Ellenville, Rondout Valley, Highland, New Paltz and Wallkill participated in a session on Theater Arts recently.

Frank Kratt, a member of the faculty at SUNY, New Paltz, led the seminar, assisted by Peggy Gilbride and Carolyn Wahl, both theater students at New Paltz.

The objectives of the evening were two-fold; one, to give the students an awareness of the various disciplines of the theater and their relationship to the physical institution of theater; and to give the students some notion of what one of the areas of theater, namely acting, is in terms of orientation and training.

The first part of the evening consisted of a tour of the theater and its supporting facilities, including: the scene shop, costume shop, make-up areas, dressing rooms, lighting control areas, lighting positions, stage and rigging. The tour concluded with a brief discussion of the various disciplines of the theater-acting, directing, lighting, costuming and scene design, and how they relate to the theatrical institution.

The second part of the evening consisted of a series of introductory acting exercises. Here the students were involved in some improvisation, sensitivity exercises, sense memory and other tasks.

Kratt is currently directing Max Frisch's play The Firebugs, which will open on Nov. 12 at the McKenna Theater, SUNY, New Paltz, where it will run through Nov. 15. During the concluding portion of the seminar, the students observed this play in rehearsal.

The Senior Seminar Program, coordinated by Joan Cullen, is a joint project of the Secondary Principals' Council of Ulster BOCES and the State University College at New Paltz. This year there are 53 students, representing seven school districts, participating in the prgram.

Band Battlers Go on to New Triumphs

THE WINNERS—TRANCE FORMATION

The Battle is won and the Trance Formation has emerged victorious.

Triumphing over four other groups to take top honors at last weekend's Battle of the Bands, the popular local combo will be on stage tonight at the Hobbit.

As a result of last week's battle, the boys who have played together since Jade Red days are $100 richer, their fame has taken another leap and the Town of Ulster Kiwanis sponsors of the Battle are thinking in terms of making it an annual event of magnitude. More than 650 teens turned out for the modern music gala at the municipal auditorium. Proceeds go to the Ulster Kiwanis scholarship fund.

Snapped at their winning moment, left, are Jay Maurer, bass guitarist; Chuck Schoonmaker, organist; Drew Wonderly, drummer, Sal Greco, lead guitarist and Raz Greco, vocalist with Billy Jay, master of ceremonies, center, offering congratulations.

Their performance at the Hobbit tonight will start at 8 o'clock and will be accompanied by a light show staged by Doug Brayton and Lee Yaple. The Coffeehouse is in the basement of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Incidentally Hobbit fans should be alert to next week's show which will feature Steve Courtney another popular local entertainer.

BARRIER — Los Angeles Lakers' Wilt Chamberlain (L) blocks Lew Alcindor's effort to shoot during first-quarter action in game last night between Lakers and Milwaukee Bucks. It was their first meeting in league play. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Wilt and Alcindor—A Standoff

By United Press International

Wilt Chamberlain had the book on Lew Alcindor when they met in a benefit game last summer — "remarkable poise for a green kid."

Chamberlain's word picture was even more vivid Friday night as rookie Alcindor battled the veteran pro to a standoff in their first regular National Basketball Association meeting.

For Chamberlain, 25 points and 25 rebounds were enough to spirit the Los Angeles Lakers to a 123-112 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.. Alcindor scored 23 points and collected 20 rebounds, but his efforts weren't nearly enough to prevent defeat, only his fourth on a losing team dating back to high school.

Alcindor's remarkable high school career at Power Memorial in New York was marred by a lone setback. As a three-time All-America at UCLA, Alcindor played in only two losing games. Friday's defeat was his first as a pro. Alcindor had led Milwaukee to three straight win before the Bucks were bumped by Los Angeles.

Milwaukee held a 60-54 halftime lead, but the Lakers rallied for an 11-point margin in the fourth quarter. When the Bucks closed to 105-102, Elgin Baylor got hot and hit for six straight baskets to put the game out of reach. Baylor's 26 points was high for Los Angeles. Flynn Robinson of Milwaukee led all scorers with 33 points.

New York raised its record to 6-1 with a 116-92 victory over Detroit, Atlanta handed winless Boston its fourth straight loss, 122-110, Baltimore stopped Cincinnati 131-126 in overtime and Chicago edged Phoenix 116-115 in an extra session.

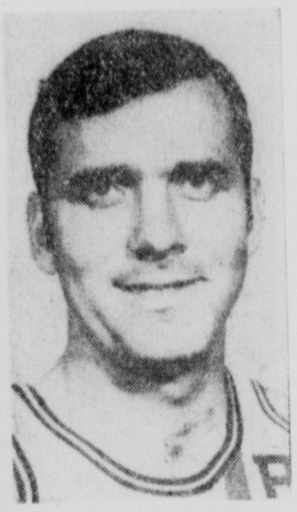

The Knicks, led by Willis Reed's 26 points, had Detroit on the run from the opening tipoff. With Reed hitting from up close and Walt Frazier (24 points) connecting from the outside, New York raced to an 88-67 third period lead. Frazier's seven assists gave him 1,000 scoring feeds in only his third NBA season.

Jim Walker led the Pistons with 21 points.

Atlanta, the Western Division leader, trounced the hapless Celtics with the help of Bill Bridges' 11-point fourth quarter. Bridges put the Hawks in front for good at 83-82 with three consecutive free throws in the third period. Lou Hudson paced Atlanta with 28 points, Bridges had 21. Don Nelson led Boston with 22 points.

Cincinnati, playing without Jerry Lucas, whom it traded to San Francisco Friday afternoon, managed a 119-all tie at the end of regulation play with Baltimore, but couldn't stop the Bullets in the extra session. Jack Marin's pair of foul shots with 19 seconds left were the clinching points. Gus Johnson was the big Bullet gun with 39 points and Oscar Robertson netted 35 for the Royals.

Chicago rallied from a 15 point deficit in the fourth quarter to squeak past Phoenix. Tom Boerwinkle's basket with 52 seconds left in overtime settled the issue. Chet Walker tallied 39 points for Chicago and Jim Fox led Phoenix with 28.

UCAL Title to Highland

By JIM MASSA

NEW PALTZ

Led by John Crawford, Highland High's cross-country team placed five men in the top 12 here Friday afternoon to capture the 1969 Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL) championship.

Crawford, who hadn't finished first in a cross-country race all season, ran over the 2.3 State University campus course in 13 minutes, 7 seconds to finish a full seven seconds ahead of Rondout Valleys' Jim Lopiano, the pre-race favorite.

Highland led the field with 29 points, followed in order by Pine Bush 77, New Paltz 89, Marlboro 100, Rondout 113, Onteora 114, and Wallkill 139.

Hobbled by Injury

Because of an injury that hobbled him most of the season, Crawford had finished most of his races in second and third places during the regular season.

"We didn't want to aggravate the injury. As long as we could win without having to go all out during the season that's the way we intended to play it. Getting stronger and stronger with every meet, John was ready to go all out today. He came through in fine fashion, as did all of the boys on the team," said John's father and coach of the Highland cross-country team, John Crawford Sr.

Lopiano Sets Pace

Lopiano set the pace at the beginning of the race and was leading when the runners disappeared over the hill. Just a few moments later on their return route it could be seen that the first runner over the hill was not Lopiano, but Crawford.

With about four-tenths of a mile left Crawford began his drive for the finish line. From the time they came back into sight until the finish Crawford added about four seconds to his lead. "It felt great to finish first for a change and I hope to do as well in the sectionals," said young Crawford.

Highland finished the season with a perfect 12-0 record. Pine Bush was 9-3 with New Paltz taking third at 8-4. Marlboro and Rondout finished with 4-8 records while Onteora posted a 3-9. Wallkill registered a 2-10 mark.

Shurter Third

George Shurter of defending champs, of last year, Pine Bush crossed the wire at 13:17 ten seconds behind Crawford. Charles Dunn and Ralph Perry of Highland finished fourth and fifth in that order to build the Highland point total. Garry Kosteczko grabbed sixth spot for Wallkill and Jacob Reese of Highland took seventh with a time of 13:22 just one second behind Kosteczko.

The results:

Lourdes Runners DCSL Champions

ARLINGTON

Wayne Rogers of Arlington High was the first runner across the line here Friday, but Our Lady of Lourdes went home with the Dutchess County Scholastic League (DCSL) cross-country title for 1969.

Roger was clocked in 11:32 over the 2.3-mile layout but Lourdes captured the next four places to nail down the team championship by a wide margin.

Lourdes' 25 points gave it a hefty edge over runnerup Roosevelt which had 62. Saugerties was third with 63, followed by Arlington (85) and Poughkeepsie, last with 106.

Behind Rogers were Paul Meier 13:54, Paul Oleksak 14:02, Tom Perkins 14:04 and Steve Meier at 14:10 all of Lourdes High.

Rex Kiniry was the first man home for the Sawyers in 14:23, not a good time for him. In seventh place at 14:28 was Dan Moser also of Saugerties. Jim Harrison took eighth for Roosevelt in 14:29 and Pete Fredkin of Saugerties was in ninth place six seconds slower. Rounding out the top ten was Frank McGroger of Roosevelt who was clocked at 14:41.

Other Saugerties finishers were: 14—Bill Benham 14:56, 26—John Johnson 15:20, 28—Steve Rosenberger 15:30 and Ronald Phillips was timed in 16:27.

Vikings Set To Feast On Lions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Minnesota Vikings, rolling behind a solid offense and a rugged defense, meet the battered Detroit Lions Sunday in an important National Football League game.

After being upset by the New York Giants on opening day, the Vikings have won four straight and lead Detroit and Green Bay by one game in their drive for a second straight Central Division championship.

Atlanta, 2-3, is at Green Bay; Washington, 3-1-1, at Pittsburgh, 1-4; St. Louis, 2-3, at Cleveland, 4-1; Los Angeles, 5-0 at Chicago, 0-5; San Francisco, 0-4-1, at Baltimore, 3-2, and New Orleans, 0-5, at Philadelphia, 1-4, Sunday. The Giants, 3-2, are at Dallas, 5-0 in a nationally televised game.

In the American Football League Sunday, Oakland is at San Diego, Boston at New York, Denver at Houston, Buffalo at Miami and Cincinnati at Kansas City.

The Vikings' defense, anchored by a tremendous front four, has allowed the fewest points, 55, and the fewest total yards, 1,016, in the NFL.

Compounding Detroit's problems are injuries. Top runner Mel Farr is sidelined by knee surgery; quarterback Bill Munson is out with a broken hand; wide receiver Bill Malinchak is doubtful because of a pulled hamstring and ace cornerback Lem Barney is hobbled by a charley horse.

Greg Landry started in place of Munson last Sunday and completed nine of 21 passes for 121 yards and one touchdown in 13-7 victory over Chicago.

Green Bay hopes to rebound from 34-21 loss to Los Angeles while Atlanta will be looking to make it two straight after beating San Francisco for second time this season, 21-7. Atlanta is without top middle linebacker Tommy Nobis, and Nobis' replacement, Don Hansen, is questionable because of a stretched right knee ligament.

Washington will count on the passing of Sonny Jurgensen, second in the league, and the NFL's sixth best running attack to beat Pittsburgh and put pressure on Capitol Division-leading Dallas. Kent Nix probably will start at quarterback for Pittsburgh in place of Dick Shiner, who has a bruised larynx.

Cleveland the Century Division leader, has running back Leroy Kelly back at full strength and rookie Ron Johnson, the league's third best rusher, plus the passing of Bill Nelsen. This should be enough to get by stumbling St. Louis, who probably will start Charley Johnson at quarterback.

Chicago, unable to get an offense going, now must face the rugged Los Angeles defense and try to stop the passing of Roman Gabriel and a solid running game. Los Angeles tops the Coastal Division.

Baltimore has beaten San Francisco 13 straight times and appears to be set to do it again. Johnny Unitas looked like his old self in completing 20 of 28 passes for 319 yards and three touchdowns in a 30-10 victory over New Orleans. After Baltimore, Philadelphia will be a step down in class for New Orleans, and this could be the time for the first victory by the Billy Kilmer-led Saints.

New York's main problem will be the same as anyone who plays Dallas—stop an offense sparked by the passing of the league's leader, Craig Morton, to such receivers as Bob Hayes and Lance Rentzel and the running of Calvin Hill, the NFL's top rusher.

RETIRED—Ed Charles, who scored the winning run in the second game of the World Series, relaxes at his home in Kansas City among his mementos after being retired by New York Mets and moved to a job in the front office. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Middies Cop DUSO Crown

BEAR MOUNTAIN

Middletown High School's cross country team placed four runners in the top nine to capture the DUSO League title for the first time since 1960 on a rather raw day here Friday.

The Middies' 32 points gave them a six-point margin over the runnerup Port Jervis team which had been favored to win. Newburgh was third with 58, followed by Kingston (116) and Monticello (118).

Port Jervis romped to an easy victory in the DUSO Village section with 19 points.

Kevin Barringer, who led the Middie upset, was clocked in 13:09 over the 2.5-mile Bear Mountain State course, cutting 14 seconds off his best time here in last year's Section Nine Class A meet.

Kevin O'Shea of Newburgh Academy was the runnerup, three seconds behind Barringer.

Rhinebeck Booters Near Title

RHINEBECK

Rhinebeck Central virtually cinched the Northern Division soccer title in the Dutchess County Scholastic League (DCSL) with an easy 5-0 win over Anderson School here Friday.

The winners scored in every period and its powerful defense limited the visitors to one shot on goal. Rhinebeck, meanwhile, unleashed 31 offensive shots.

Rhinebeck's goalie, Marquardt, had to make only one save, while Abbott of Anderson fended off 18 Rhinebeck shots.

Rhinebeck's scoring balance was reflected in the fact that five different players connected.

Chuck Hart got the winners off to a 1-0 lead with an unassisted goal from a breakaway at 14:46 of the first period. Pete Grimm, with an assist from Hart, scored at 1:15 in the second period and Sandy Jack followed at 6:23 on a breakaway to give Rhinebeck a 3-0 lead at the half.

Sung Chin's solo at 2:22 in the third period and Mark Farrell's goal at 13:15 in the fourth period closed out the Rhinebeck scoring.

Maroon Frosh Top Port, 13-0

KINGSTON

Kingston High freshmen defeated Port Jervis in football, 13-0, Friday, to avenge a previous 12-0 setback at the hands of the Tri-Staters. It was the second straight shutout for the Maroons, who are now 2-2.

Tom Brodhead skirted end for 11 yards to climax an 80-yard drive for Kingseton's first TD in the seconod period. Walt Houghtaling passed nine yards to Gerald Klingman for the second score in the final period.

Outstanding on defense for Kingston were Larry Woerner, Jeff Lowe, Clement Howard, Jeff Longendyke and Tim Nicholas.

Windy Lightning Mighty M Winner

MONTICELLO

The opening night of Monticello Raceway's two experimental weekends of late fall racing saw Windy Lightning, driven by Al Burton, capture the featured fourth race tort in 2:08.4, in a wire-to-wire effort.

Windy Lightning, a gelded 9-year-old son of Empire Hanover-Bouquet, is owned and trained by Burton, and Friday's win represents only the second victory of the year for him in 11 starts.

Windy Lightning was hard-pressed throughout the first half of the course by Shadydale Accent, Jim Grundy the driver. While Windy Lightning cut the quarter in :32 flat, and the half in 1:05.2, Shadydale Accent was hot on his heels.

At the three-quarters the challenge was taken by Purse Demon, driven by Kenneth McNutt. After they passed that pole in 1:37.2, also established by Windy Lightning, the two horses fought a head-and-head duel. Purse Demon broke in the stretch, however, in a misstep that dashed his hopes of winning, and came in second. The show horse was Star Spangled, Eddie Accardi in the sulky.

Monticello will have racing Saturday night, and again next Friday and Saturday, Oct. 31 and November 1. Despite temperatures hovering at the freezing mark, the fans were kept in a comfortable state, thanks to the all-weather enclosure installed at the Sullivan track before the opening of this season. Tonight's card, and the remaining three programs, will consist of 11 races each, with perfecta wagering in the 3rd, 5th, 7th and 11th races.

The daily double Friday night was a 3 and 2 combination worth $101.80.

The opening trot, which carried a purse of $1,100 was captured by a 7-year-old mare, Direct Return, with provisional driver Al Rescigno at the reins. Direct Return, a daughter of Repeat Direct-Molly Return, trotted the mile in 2:11.2. The victory was her second win of the season, making her 1969 record read 2-2-2.

The second event, a pace, was won by a 3-year-old colt, Sabino, driven by his owner and trainer, Richard Yakin. He cut the mile in 2:11 flat. In eleven starts this season, the first of his career, Sabino now has 3 firsts, a second, and 2 third-place finishes.

Buffalo Harriers Cop SUNY Title

NEW PALTZ — Buffalo State University harriers captured the first two places in a 69-entry field to win the 1969 State of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC) cross country championships.

The Orange, with three of the first five men, scored 52 points. Runnerup was Cortland State with 59.

Tom Mysal and Mark Rynerson, both sophomores at Buffalo State, led the field placing 1-2 in times of 24:49 and 24:56.

The first five finishers broke the old course record of 25:23 set by Hackett of Albany State over the relatively flat but scenic 4.7 New Paltz campus course.

Bob Goodell of Brockport placed third in 25:06 and Ed Faulkner of Cortland fourth in 25:13. Donald Pollock of Buffalo was fifth in 25:19.

Oneonta's first man across the finish line was senior Bill Young, who made a strong showing in sixth place. Co-captain Gene Foster ran one of his best races this season finishing 10th while Bob Zakel (24th), Bob Harvey (27th) and Bob Klein (39th) rounded out the top five scorers for Onteora.

Bill Young of Onteora has been awarded selection to the harriers "Runners Hall of Fame" by placing in the top 10 twice in the SUNYAC Conference Meet. In 1967, Young finished eighth.

Other Oneonta representatives are Jim Dever and Al Pastore.

Kickers on Road

MORGAN HILL — It's a battle of the have-nots when the Kingston Kickers take on Blue Star in a Major Division match in the German-American Football Association, Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Washington Heights High School field in New York.

Kingston is 1-5 in the big league, while Blue Star has tied one and lost three to occupy the cellar, one notch below the Kickers.

Kingston can improve its position in the standings with a victory, while New York Hungarians are beating Hellenic. The Hungarians invade Oehler's Lodge a week from Sunday. Once a powerhouse, Blue Star traded several of its stars to other major league teams, including their top scorer, Chardin, who now plays for Elizabeth Sport Club, leader of the south division of the Major League.

Nevertheless, Sunday's task will be difficult, says Manager Heinz Ulfig. "We will be handicapped by the loss of our defensive ace, Karl Von Borkolu, who has been injured and is a doubtful starter Sunday."

In North division action, Eintracht is at BW Gottschee and Inter-Guiliana takes on unbeaten Greek-Americans. German-Hungarians are at New York Ukrainians.

Inter-division play sends Hellenic against N.Y. Hungaria and N. Y. Hota at Elizabeth.

WIBC Rep. Explains Women's Tenpin Rules

KINGSTON — The tremendous growth of mixed leagues has caused the Women's International Bowling Congress (WIBC) to change some rules of long standing to conform with ABC (American Bowling Congress) rules.

This is the message Margaret Richards field representative of the WIBC, brought to a seminar sponsored by the Kingston Women's Bowling Association.

Two examples are rules dealing with legal lineup and bowling against scores, she noted.

Leagues now have the option of using substitutes in a legal lineup, instead of the required three regular members (on a five-man team). Adoption of the new rules, however, permits a team to bring in five substitutes to bowl in place of the five regular team members.

Adoption of the bowling-against-score rule permits a team, or each individual on a team, to bowl their scheduled game at their convenience. This means that a team with five members could choose to bowl at five different times.

There is one stipulation, however. A league official must be present at all times and the score of the opposing team cannot be revealed until after the team which is bowling against scores has completed its games.

Other rules changes eliminate the payment of dues by WIBC pacers and permit a sanctioned bowler to bowl in an unsanctioned league.

These many changes are necessary, the WIBC representative said, because of the many sections in the country which are on shift work making it impossible for all members of a team to meet at the same time. They are also designed to eliminate excessive postponements or forfeitures.

Mrs. Richards advised strongly that leagues adopt very complete rules that will control the use of the new WIBC rules before adopting them.

Mrs. Nell Glennon, KWBA president, presided at the seminar.

Hawk Jayvees Edge Rockland

NEW PALTZ — State University Jayvees harriers defeated Rockland Community College, 22-35 over the 3.2-mile Hawk course, winning, second, third and fourth places, behind Rockland's Courtney Springmeyer, who was clocked in 18 minutes, 19 seconds.

Jim Munz was first runner across for the Hawks, who are now 2-2 on the season and close out against Storm King Prep next Tuesday.

Archer Retains Lead in Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — George Archer battled out of the woods three times with a scrambling four-under-par 67 Friday to hold the lead in the $100,000 San Francisco Open with a 36-hole score of 12-under 130.

The Masters champion, returning to the golfing wars after an absence of two months with tendonitis in his left elbow, drove into the woods three times and into the rough once. But five short birdie putts and a 20-footer for a saving par enabled him to stay on top by two strokes over Miller Barber.

Anneliese Kime Leads With 581

SAUGERTIES — Anneliese Kime led Thursday Nite Women bowlers with a 203-581 slam. Runnerup was Rose Lechner with 210-551.

Other qualifiers were: Mary Coons 545, Beverly Hines 521, Mary Ann Maines 515, Pat Pavlak 503, Fran Gennetti 502, Ginny Ayvaliotis 501.

Each entry must be mailed separately, and received at address on card by midnight Friday preceding that week's games. Actual game outcomes and score accuracy determine winners. Ties will be broken by entries first received. Judges' decision is final. Winners will be notified by mail and their names posted in the approximately 1000 participating Esso stations in State of New York and South Fairfield County, Connecticut. Your skill and number of weekly entries received will determine your probability of winning. Contest ends December 31, 1969.

NOTICE OF SALE
Index No. 4735

IN PURSUANCE AND by virtue of a Judgment or Decree in Foreclosure, duly granted in the above entitled action on the 15th day of October, 1969, I, JOHN LARKIN, the undersigned Referee, in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the lobby of the Ulster County Courthouse in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, on the 17th day of November, 1969, at 12 o'clock noon, of that day, as one parcel and property, the premises described in said Judgment, as follows:

ALL that tract or parcel of land, situate in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, being the northerly half of lot number one hundred and thirty-six (136) on the property of George North as described and designated in a survey of the same accompanied by a map thereof drawn by D. Ferguson, August, 1894, and bounded and described as follows:

COMMENCING at a point on the westerly side of Gill Street at the southerly line of Lot No. 137, and runs thence westerly along said Lot No. 137 about seventy-two feet to an alley; thence southerly along said alley twenty-five feet; thence easterly and parallel with and distant twenty-five feet from the first mentioned line about seventy-two feet to the westerly side of Gill Street; and thence northerly along the same to the place of beginning.

BEING the same premises described in a deed executed by Anthony J. Alecca and Mary R. Alecca, his wife, to Amos R. Depuy and Emma S. Depuy, his wife, by deed dated June 19, 1967 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on June 19, 1967 in liber 1198, page 233.

Demo Women Meet Tuesday

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Democratic Women's Club will meet Tuesday, Oct. 28 at 8 p. m. at the Democratic Headquarters, 644 Broadway. A school for Democratic inspectors will be conducted at the same time.

City Clerk Thomas Lyle will administer the oath of office for inspectors and checkers who have not already been sworn in.

During the regular meeting, discussions will be held about formation of a committee to conduct the annual rummage sale to be held Nov. 6, 7 and 8 at the Broadway address. Christmas fund-raising also will be discussed and a committee will be named to plan for the annual Christmas party.

All inspectors, checkers and regular members are urged by the leaders to attend the meeting, after which refreshments will be served.

Nab 15 Teens After Colonie Narcotics Raid

COLONIE, N. Y. (UPI)—State troopers and Colonie town police arrested 15 youths attending what was termed a "pot party" at a private home in this Albany suburb Friday night.

Authorities said the youngsters ranged in age from 16 to 19. Eleven were charged with loitering, three with criminal possession of narcotics and one with narcotic intoxication. A quantity of marijuana, hashish and drug equipment was seized in the raid, police said.

All of the youths were released to their parents or freed on bail pending further court action Nov. 6.

Dear Abby

She Got the Message

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I was one of those sloppy housekeepers who never seemed to get her house work done: I could sit for hours, day-dreaming, and when my husband came home from work, the house looked about the same as when he left, or worse!

Gary never complained, so for four years we lived in a pigpen, whether I was working or not.

Finally I became pregnant, and when the day came for me to go to the hospital I left behind dirty dishes from three days, an oven full of dirty pots and pans which had been "hidden" there for weeks, and soiled clothing piled high to the ceiling right next to my new washer-dryer.

This is only a partial description, but it will give you an idea of what a lousy housekeeper I was.

I realize this is long, Abby, but I'm sure it describes many homes from Boston to San Francisco, and I want to be sure these lazy women recognize themselves.

Well, I am sending you a copy of the letter my mother wrote to me while she stayed at my house when I was in the hospital. Perhaps if you print it, it will wake up some other lazy wives. It sure did wake ME up. And though it's been two years, her letter has been read and re-read and cherished. I am still so ashamed of my old habits, I've changed the names, so feel free to print it as it is.

"Dear Lisa,

Just a note between us girls. I am cleaning your house today so you won't have so much to do when you come home.

Now you're probably saying, "Gee, that's sure nice of you Mom, I didn't ask you to." Well, the truth of it is, you didn't. But I wanted to, and it sure needed it. But that is all in the past. Let's look at the future.

You are now a mother, and it's time you became a housekeeper, so get busy! If Gary made you a living the way you keep house, you would starve to death. He does his job well, and you should start doing YOUR job, too. Okay?

If you're tired, talk to your doctor. If you're too lazy, talk to yourself.

You may say, "Mom, you have no right to say this!" I say, "Oh, yes, I have. It's a mother's right."

Your house is spotless now. Keep it that way! And when you get over being mad, make a pot of coffee and invite me over.

All my love,
MOM"

DEAR ABBY: Recently I was asked to baby-sit (without pay) with my daughter's children while she and her husband went out for dinner.

I went directly to their house from work, thinking that was what they expected. When I got there I noticed she had TV dinners ready for the children, but nothing for me, so I went home (only a few blocks away), got myself a bite and brought it back and sat with the children. They ate their dinners and part of mine! All the while, their mother looked on.

I must have spoiled this daughter more than I know, for her to be so thoughtless. What can I do now, if anything? Ask her to feed ME next time, too? Or am I too sensitive?

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: It's difficult to believe that a daughter could be THAT thoughtless, but if yours is, tell her that the next time she asks you to sit she should be prepared to feed you.

DEAR ABBY: When being introduced to a person, is it okay to say, "I have certainly heard a lot about you?"

RON

DEAR RON: It all depends on what you've heard.

Everybody has a problem. what's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You get what you go after; be discriminating. Live up to potential; accept added responsibility. Key is to know that more persons care about your welfare than might be imagined.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Accent on personality, appearance. Circumstances turn in your favor. You receive meaningful compliments, much praise. Excellent for sharing recreation with neighbors, co-workers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Romance is featured. Ordinary events are dressed up, colored — the daily routine becomes effervescent. Be subtle. Maintain air of mystery. Let people play guessing game.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Fun at home indicated. TAURUS individual could prove life of your party. Accent on friendships, special agreements. Your intuition works overtime. Heed inner voice.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be ready to accept and analyze new ideas, concepts. Visit from LIBRA individual could prove stimulating. Shake off preconceived notions. Listen and learn. Accent on personal advacement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Money expended for travel, long-range programs is well spent. Stress ... home comforts. Do something today which makes family member happy. Express love, joy, appreciation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You are popular; many want your advice and will accept financial guidance. Accent on how you handle special accounts, assignments. Be ready for change, travel, variety.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): What seems obvious could prove elusive. You will need family backing. An apparent minor error could be blown out of proportion. Know this and keep your cool. Be specific, thorough.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be sensible in celebrating special event. Remember diet, health —and know you must face yourself in the morning. Some around you are misinformed. Heed your own judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be creative. You need outlet for expression. Don't be frightened by tradition. Build your own traditions. Show what you're worth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): May be difficult for you to be practical — but it is necessary. Yours visions, dreams become realities only if you build on solid base. Know this — and act accordingly. Home affairs dominate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Visit with relative could produce constructive results. Clear air concerning loan, debt or payment schedule. Then you can relax. One close to you is concerned over your welfare.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are due to get on sounder fianancial footing. Period of preparation is over. Now the seeds begin to blossom. If single, matrimony cannot be too far away.

Video's Down and Outers

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—With the New York Mets now the world champions (of the United States), it figured this would be a good month for people who have been counted down and out.

In television, at any rate, it is.

For example, the Smothers Brothers, who were fired by CBS-TV, have latched on to an hour video special on another network. Their show will be broadcast on NBC-TV Feb. 16.

Then there is Jim Aubrey, the former network president who also was fired by CBS-TV. He has been made the key working boss of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and will surely control production.

In short, he now heads up a studio that, among other things, will try to sell television shows to all networks, including the one that fired him.

And then there is Muhammad Ali, the former Cassius Clay, who is the ex-world heavyweight champion. Ali has been having his problems for some time now, but you can see him Saturday as a commentator for the American-Russian amateur boxing competition on ABC-TV's "Wide World of Sports," from Las Vegas.

The Mets, by the way, will be among those saluted in an April 2 NBC-TV special, "It Couldn't be Done," which will focus on American achievements that were "thought to be out of reach." According to a press release, the Mets will be honored along with the Panama Canal, Mount Rushmore and the Golden Gate Bridge.

"The idea of the program," says the producer, "is to single out Americans responsible for doing things which everybody said were impossible."

Now that is gorgeous creative thinking. If nothing else, it gives me the courage to show that I can stretch an angle at least as well. Let's see: As I recall, my angle on this piece was losers who came back on television. All right:

—On Nov. 9, on ABC-TV, Richard Burton plays the ill-fated agent of "The Spy Who Came In from the Cold," on the Sunday movie.

—On Nov. 2, a "lost" piano work by Franz Schubert, whose manuscript was discovered last year in an attic in an Austrian town, will be played by Lili Kraus on CBS-TV's, "Camera Three."

—According to reports, Lyndon Johnson, who announced during last year's primary campaigns that he would not run again for the presidency, will be the subject of a number of autobiographical CBS-TV documentaries covering his 38 years in public office.

Well, at any rate, it's October, and let's drink to the Mets. They have enlivened television, as you can see, with more than baseball. And everybody's got an angle.

Dummy Reversal Aids Grand Slam

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The Reese-Dormer bidding of today's hand is very good. North responds only three spades to leave room for exploration. When South's next bid is diamonds, North raises to show the king and South goes to the grand slam.

West, determined not to look foolish, opened the ace of hearts. South ruffed, proceeded to play out three rounds of trumps, and eventually could only make 12 tricks. East l ng on to all his diamonds and enough hearts to prevent the establishment of a heart in dummy.

West should really have opened a trump on the bidding. If it had, South would have gone down. As it was, the heart opening gave South a chance to reverse the dummy and make the hand by playing it upside down.

The dummy reversal play would also be a sure thing, provided the diamonds did not divide 7-0.

At trick two, South leads a diamond to dummy's king. Then he ruffs a second heart high. He gets back to dummy again by ruffing his nine of diamonds. He ruffs a third heart, leads a trump to dummy, ruffs a fourth heart high. This will leave him with one trump, since he has played one and ruffed four hearts. He will also be holding the ace-queen-jack of diamonds and his ace-jack of clubs.

Dummy will still have two trumps. He will lead a trump to dummy, discard his jack of clubs on dummy's last trump while West follows with his last trump. Then lead a small club to his ace, where his top diamonds will take the rest of the tricks.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Freeman City Hall Reporter

WHAT EVER happened to Bobby, Burt and Dick and Hubie and Tommie? Bobby (Gallo), Burt (Davis) and Dick (Rider) are all running for alderman-at-large. Hubie (Richter) and Tommie (Saccoman) are running for city judge.

We brought those names up in conversation this week and got reactions like, "who do you think is going to get elected mayor", "Burt who", and "That Joe Saccoman was a helluva good judge."

Former city judge Joe Saccoman isn't running, his cousin, Tommie is, but that'll give you an idea of how much interest the other candidates are stirring up this fall.

The race for judge between Thomas F. Saccoman and Hubert A. Richter, figures to be a close one.

It's generally conceded that Richter has done a good job in his four years on the bench, but that may be his main problem in getting reelected. A traffic ticket can come back to haunt you, the family of a youthful offender may have it in for you. Law and order is great, just as long as it doesn't pertain to you.

Richter, by the very fact that he has been a city judge for the last four years, has made enemies and those are the people that can beat you in an election. The simple arithmetic of the thing is that for every person that votes against you, you need two to get back in in the lead.

BOBBY GALLO has problems similar to Richter, but on a lesser scale. Few people we've met are neutral about Gallo—they either like him a lot or not at all. Fortunately, for Gallo, the former seem to outnumber the latter by a substantial margin. Also fortunate for Gallo is the fact that his opponent Burton Davis, isn't that well-known, and, according to reports we get, isn't exactly breaking his neck campaigning.

The key to their chances will lie in their respective running mates at the top of the ticket. The book on Gallo is that he needs a strong mayoral running mate to pull him in. At this point, the race for mayor looks like a 500-vote plurality for the winner.

THE THIRD MAN in the alderman-at-large race, Dick Rider, is the definite underdog but he is by no means offering a token candidacy. "I'm really worried," Rider told us this week. "It looks like I might win this thing."

Rider, incidentally, is the author of those Conservative Party ads in The Freeman. They're gassers. How about the one on Thursday night? . . . "Bernie Singer is running for the people, Koenig is running against Tyrrell, Tyrrell is running against Garraghan (who isn't even running)" Who said the Conservative Party has no imagination?

The aldermanic races are always tough to figure, being pretty much neighborhood affairs. We note though that Democrats see the stock of their Eighth Ward Candidate, Emillio Primo, going up. We hear Bob Hardwick, the Conservative is running hard and taking a lot of the normally Republican votes away from Fred Linnartz, the GOP hopeful.

The Flo Ludlow, Pete Fisher race in the Fourth Ward is a tossup. Over in the 11th Ward, Ed Norton, the perennial winner, is getting more of a race from Helen Radakovitch, the Conservative, then from Dolores Buck, the Republican.

The race for legislature is a real tossup what with 19 candidates running. About the only sure things we've heard are Mel Mones on the Republican side and Doc Gorman on the Democratic side. There have been some definite losers mentioned but let's not discourage them at this point.

* * *

WELL, WHAT ABOUT THE MAYOR? Who knows? Koenig may be picking up steam, at least Bernie Singer seems to think so. We note that Bernie has taken to attacking Koenig and not Tyrrell. Could be that Bernie considers Koenig the man to catch?

As for Tyrrell, his main strength seems to lie in his door to door campaigning, the results of which won't be known until Election Day.

As we get it, a lot of residents in the city have been pleasantly surprised to find out that the Campaigning Tyrrell, door to door, is a lot different than the Rampaging Tyrrell on the radio.

The scene:
Knock knock.
Who's there?
Jim.
Jim who?
Jim Tyrrell.
Harry, it's that loudmouth from the radio, Jim Tirade.
Don't talk to him. He'll hang up on you.
No, Harry. Look, he's smiling.
Smiling?
Yes. He's really a nice guy, after all.
Gee. Maybe the radio show was all an act.

Irish Eye Visitors For Ulster in 1971

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland is looking to one unexpected benefit from its year of trouble: a potential boom in tourism.

This year the province's hotels and caterers have had a thin though not disastrous time. Visitors have fallen by around 10 per cent from last year's 1,197,000. Even if the current quiet continues, they expect little improvement next year.

But 1971, backed by a big "come to Ulster" campaign in the United States, Canada and Germany should tell a different story.

That will be the 50th anniversary of the Northern Ireland state. For the celebrations, Belfast is building a leisure center with concerts and sports hall.

William Stephens, the travel and transportation expert who is chairman of the Northern Ireland Tourist Board, told an interviewer: "At least people now realize as a result of all these troubles that Northern Ireland exists. If things continue reasonably, we can expect a lot of visitors to come and see if we are really as bad as we've been painted."

The coming campaign will press the area's excellent fishing, sailing, the calm coast resorts such as Warren Point in the mountains of Mourne, the 60 golf courses all available to the tourists for a daily fee of a dollar or so, and a new line in vacations in pony trekking along the coast and through the mountains.

For the real peace-seeker, the board is pushing hard its 150 farm guest houses, all inspected to guarantee reasonable standards of comfort. They provide a chance to live with the people at $3 a night and most have horse riding or good fishing and sailing available.

10 GIs Killed in 'Moon' Battle

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troops lost 10 killed and 11 wounded, their heaviest single-battle losses since the lull in fighting began, in a flareup reported by American headquarters today.

Military spokesmen said 47 guerrilla soldiers died in the fighting 3 miles northwest of Saigon in an area known as "the moon" because of its cratered appearance from almost daily bombing raids.

It was the costliest battle for American forces since Sept. 17, the day the lull began, when U.S. Marines lost 16 killed and 34 wounded in a North Vietnamese attack near the Demilitarized Zone.

Headquarters said the fight began after U.S. helicopter spotters sighted three Communist troops in the area and summoned 'copter-riding troops. They ran into heavy guerrilla ground fire and summoned reinforcements.

Behind armored personnel carriers, air strikes and artillery bombardments, the U.S. troopers fought from bomb crater to bomb crater in driving out the entrenched guerrillas, spokesmen said.

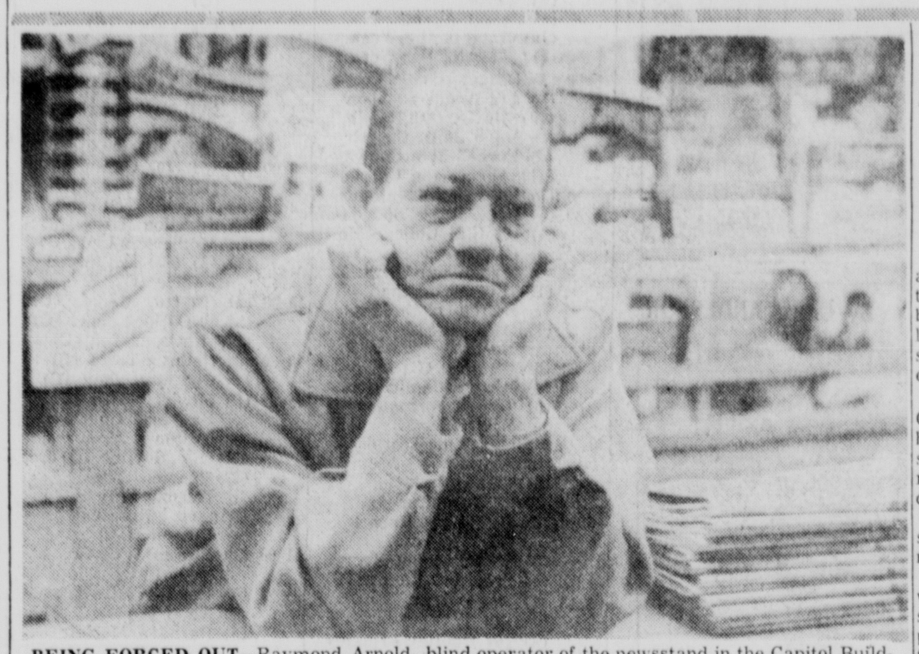

U.S. officials characterized the fighting elsewhere as light and scattered, reporting 10 overnight communist shelling attacks which caused light damage and casualties at towns and allied camps.

In other actions reported by headquarters:

—U.S. Green Berets and their South Vietnamese irregular helpers overran a guerrilla supply base 140 miles southwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border and found 1,000 pounds of rice, 40 sampans, 105 mortar shells, six cases of bullets, an antiaircraft machine gun, 110 antitank rockets and other supplies.

—Springing from ambush, Viet Cong troops killed one American soldier and wounded 14 in a brief clash 60 miles northwest of Saigon. The U.S. troops called in air strikes and artillery support and reported three of the ambushers slain.

—B52 bombers recorded four overnight strikes, hitting suspected Communist camps below the Demilitarized Zone, along the Laotian border, in the Central Highlands and near the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon.

BEING FORCED OUT—Raymond Arnold, blind operator of the newsstand in the Capitol Building in Albany, is going out of business. Arnold says he is being forced out of business because of bureaucratic red tape and general government laxity. He is out $2,400 because it takes from one to three months for the state to pay its bills. Governor Rockefeller's office purchases from $600 to $650 a month in newspapers and Arnold says they are usually from one to two months behind in payment. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

See Vacation Homes In Minnewaska Area

KINGSTON

A syndicate of New York City area businessmen is interested in purchasing the vast Lake Minnewaska resort property in the Shawangunk Mountains.

Development of exclusive vacation homes is the aim of the syndicate for the 3,500 acres of the 107-parcel resort property. The two lake areas — Lake Awosting and Lake Minnewaska —are not included in the land.

According to information available and confirmed by Charles Roach, local real estate broker of Kraft-Roach, 42 Main Street, the prospective buyers would preserve the wilderness of the area, putting the luxury vacation homes on large lot areas with a minumum of cutting and clearing.

Representatives of the syndicate inspected the area on horseback several weeks ago Thomas Roach, associated with his brother as a salesman, made the arrangements at New Paltz.

Roach confirmed that negotiations are being held, but no final determination has been made at this time.

The property, owned by Kenneth B. and Lucille Phillips has a mortgage lien of $1.2 million and is threatened with foreclosure.

On Oct. 11, The Freeman reported that a national conservation organization, Nature Conservancy, may be interested in acquiring the property in order to hold it until such time as the state is able to purchase it for a public park.

This was termed as an interim solution by David Forester, information director for Mid-Hudson Patterns for Progress, New Paltz, one of several groups determined to protect the tract and keep it in its natural wild state.

Since that time no further word has been heard about the idea. Members of the board of directors of Nature Conservancy reportedly held a meeting in New York City early in October to discuss the plan and perhaps come to some decision on the conservation aspects of the tract.

The Freeman first revealed the foreclosure action planned by the County National Bank of Newburgh. Legal action is pending in November in Supreme Court.

Problems of Prosperity: West Germans Hike Mark

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The new West German government, in office less than a week, has increased the international exchange rate of the mark to combat inflation and keep the economic boom in check.

This means West Germans will get more for their currency when they go to another country. Before the revaluation it took four marks to get a doliar; now it will take 3.66. The new rate goes into effect Monday.

The 8.25 per cent increase, announced Friday night, should cause a drop in the country's large trade surplus and hold down rising domestic prices that the boom is pushing up.

For the American consumer, the revaluation means that West German goods will become more expensive. Volkswagen said raising the value of the mark may mean it will have to increase its prices. Ernst Leitz, the optical firm that makes the Leica camera, said its cameras will go up in price.

Economics Minister Karl Schiller announced the revaluation after a cabinet meeting. He said it was "a courageous but not a foolhardy step" and would bring stability to West German industry.

The move was taken by the country's new Social Democrat-led government, sworn into office Tuesday. It ended months of wrangling between the Social Democrats and the Christian Democrats, who refused to go along with a revaluation as long as they led the government.

In Washington, the U.S. Treasury Department welcomed it "should resolve in a constructive manner the principal cause of uncertainty that has existed in the exchange markets."

Schiller warned that some segments of the economy may suffer.

The government decided to give subsidies to farmers, whose products now will become too expensive in their traditional markets in neighboring countries. The government also plans to keep an eye on weak industries that might suffer, Schiller said.

Schiller said raising the value of the mark would halt inflation and yet not endanger full employment and economic growth

Besides revaluing the mark from 25 cents to 27.3224 cents, the government announced that it had decided to do away with a 4 per cent export tax imposed last November to curb the surplus of exports over imports.

West German industrialists anticipated sharp cuts in profits and stiffer competition abroad as a result of the revaluation. An official of the West Germany Industry Federation said the move is being "regretted by industry but accepted."

Disneyland a Blast For Red Spacemen

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—The amphitheater trembled and the thundering sound of a rocket being launched roared from the loudspeakers. Two visiting Russian cosmonauts were "blasting off" for the moon.

"Wow!" shouted Maj. Gen. Georgiy Beregovoy, and jabbed his finger at the television screen in the ceiling as the rocket soared through the clouds into space.

His companion, scientist Konstantin Feokistov craned his neck at the screen and laughed.

The circular amphitheater was at Disneyland, the famous southern California amusement park, where the visitors from the Soviet Union were on the "Flight to the Moon" ride at "Tomorrowland."

After spending most of the day touring the attractions of Walt Disney's "Magic Kingdom," Beregovoy said I feel 25 years younger."

The cosmonauts were presented with Mickey Mouse watches by the Disney characters Mickey and Goofy, who were decked out in space suits and helmts.

"Thank you very much," Beregovoy said as he and Feokistov obligingly donned two round-eared Mickey Mouse caps for photographers. "Now we are admitted to this particular society."

The cosmonauts were in San Diego, Calif., today for a tour of the citys famous zoo and a professional football game Sunday.

Beregovoy, dressed in a white turtleneck shirt, brown suit and pointed-toe shoes, lived up to his advance billing as a livewire. Feokistov, dressed in a conservative gray suit, had a reputation as a deadpan in other U.S. cities but he loosened up during the tour of Disneyland.

Later Friday, the cosmonauts were guests a a gala party in Beverly Hills which was attended by some of the most famous motion picture stars in America. However, the Russian spacemen could recognize only one of the entertainers.

Cold Is Sweeping East

By United Press International

Raw wintery weather edged down the northern Rockies and the Great Plains today, with snow in the higher elevations and freezing precipitation in the lowlands. Highways were very slippery in the area.

Meanwhile, arctic air sideswiped the north central border states, accompanied by snow and freezing rain. Stockmen's warnings were in effect for northern and central Wyoming today, and for southern Wyoming late today and tonight.

At Livingston, Mont., six inches of new snow fell in a six-hour span.

More typically autumn weather was the rule across many other parts of the nation. It was on the cool side in most regions, except for relatively warm readings from the Gulf region to the arid Southwest.

Rain fell intermittently in Florida and some sprinkles occurred in the vicinity of the Great Lakes. Cool but dry weather covered the east and the southern Rockies.

Temperatures at 3 a.m. EDT today ranged frmm 78 at both Homestead and Miami, Fla., to 20 at Cut Bank, Mont.

Snow was forecast to continue over Western Montana today with daytime temperatures in the 20s and the low 30s.

WORKING WOODSTOCK'S CALIFORNIA QUARRY IN 1890s

STONE CUTTERS OF RONDOUT IN THE LONG, LONG AGO

A Hike to an Old Bluestone Quarry

The burgeoning bluestone business, once among the most important industries in the U.S., has long since vanished from the countryside. Still, a few remaining monuments of that golden era can bee seen by travellers along various Ulster County roads in a rubbish pile still in existence here and there.

Sad to say, however, there is little hope that this industry will ever flower again.

Strangely, the bluestone industry—like so many other things that had grown gargantuan but gradually from a small beginning—made its appearance almost unnoticed at first. Strangely because the bluestone ledges of Ulster County had produced as many millions of dollars as many a gold mining district in the Klondike. But the process had been so gradual, few realized its importance.

Moray or Brainard?

Legends abound about who was first with the most in Ulster's bluestone scene. Some say that a man named Moray opened the first quarry at Moray Hill in 1826. Another will tell you the first quarry was near Sawkill. If history is not too reliable on this subject, it is known that a man named Brainard bought a farm about three miles from Saugerties and opened there a local bluestone quarry in 1832.

That bluestone boomed is veified in "Picturesque Ulster," says this late 1800's tome: "Hundreds of acres of land that cost the original owners $1.50 an acre in the early part of the century, a few years later paid them $1,500 an acre in 'quarry rents.' When the stone had been taken away, the land was still worth more than the original cost."

Most old-time Ulsterites know that bluestone is an extremely hard, fine-grained sandstone. It varies in color and quality, and the dark bluestone found in Ulster County was considered the best. Additionally, here in the foothills of the Catskills the bluestone was located in ideal locations for quarrying and shipment.

The peculiar feature that gave bluestone its value for sidewalks (and New York was a big, big buyer)—aside from the fact that it split easily into slabs of varying thickness—is that although it could be worked smooth, it did not lend itself to polishing and, therefore, never became slippery. Its pleasing color, clean appearance, low cost, and extreme durability were other points that made it ideal material for sidewalks.

To South Rondout

In Ulster's past it was a common occurrence to see teams of horses drawing loads of bluestone to South Rondout to be loaded on barges for a trip down the river to New York.

It should interest many, then, that a lecture and slide program on our Bluestone Days will be presented tomorrow (Sunday, Oct. 26) at 1:30 p. m. by historian Harry Siemsen. The session will be held at the Historical Society of Woodstock, 6 Rock City Road, Woodstock.

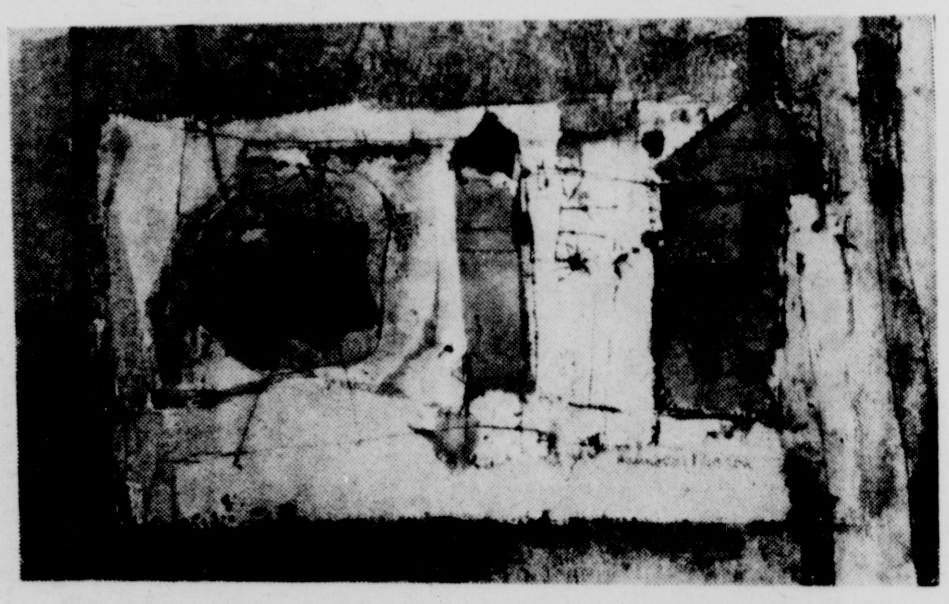

Following the program and the serving of light refreshments, those interested will hike to one of the old bluestone quarries. The trip will give all a chance to see in their mind's eye how this once flourishing industry was carried on. And for those who believe in ghosts, perhaps even the sounds of old stone hammers and chisels will be heard.

ARTIST HANNELORE BARON AND WORK

THIS PAINTING, "SCROLLS," won for Mrs. Baron a major award.

To Paint Is to Love Again, Perhaps?

"Henry Miller expressed my feeling when he wrote: 'To paint is to love again. It is only when we look with eyes of love that we see as a painter sees.' "

Speaking in this philosophical vein is Hannelore Baron, artist of note and painter whose work will be presented in a special exhibit at Ulster County Community College this month and next.

Thirty one paintings and colleges on paper, linen and canvas, along with five wall hangings and three unique boxes by Mrs. Baron will be featured in the "Artist as Painter" show slated from Oct. 27 to Nov. 26 in The Visual Arts Gallery on UCCC's Stone Ridge campus.

Small but Appealing

Small, intimate and delicate, the works have a special appeal. Colored forms float in their own space; have infinite capacity to delight with simple motifs and minimal symbols.

Hannelore Baron's paintings are personal recollections of situations reflecting sensitivity and serenity. Small in size but intimate in spirit, they reveal a philosophic contemplation of mystic thought.

Explains the artist: "My paintings have grown with me over the years, becoming ever more personal. They are the result of strong emotional involvements with people, places and situations around me."

As for her collages, she feels they celebrate events of the past, or in her work on cloth banners in particular, commemorate feelings or moods, both joyous and mournful.

A Confrontation

Generally, this talented artist works small because "that's how I feel, surrounded as I am by the New York megalopolis and confronted with the exploration of the vastness of outer space." Reflected in her collages is her belief that much of life is still a mystery; that the answer might very well be: "to look with the eyes of love."

Born in Germany, the artist studied abroad; now resides in Riverdale, N. Y. Her paintings are in museums and private collections throughout the country and she has exhibited widely in museums and galleries in the east. Cited for numerous awards in recent years, her exhibit at UCCC will prove why.

The campus display is a comprehensive one-man show of the artist's work, assembled by Professor Ruth Muroff, chairman of UCCC's Department of Visual Arts. The gallery there is open to the public, faculty and students daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., Monday to Friday.

Among the titles of the many Baron works which will be on view: Orange Landscape, Blue Forms, Torn Flag, Black Sun, Pink with White Field, Drawing with Red, Arrows and Blue Landscape.

The 'Clothing Store'—A Unisex Citadel

IT'S NOT BONNIE AND CLYDE updated; it's Claudia and Steve making the NOW scene. He in World War I flier's hat, "cracked leather jacket" from England, flier's glasses, Mississipp import turtleneck and seafarer bell bottoms. She in hand crocheted Snoopy hat, antique leather jacket, wool challis scarf and seafarer jean bells.

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

"IT'S GETTIN' SO YOU CAN'T TELL THE GIRLS FROM THE BOYS!"

Yup, there's been a decided trend of late to obscure the traditionally accepted concepts of masculinity and femininity. And nowhere has the trend been more obvious than in the selection by he and she of wearing apparel.

On the one hand, men—traditionally confined to a drab choice between brown, gray or navy blue—are going in for more colorful and bizarre styles. On the other hand, the ladies—bless 'em—are casting aside all those frills and fancy stuff of the past for the more casual elegance of pants and button down shirts.

Viva La Revolution!

The total impact of these tradition-shattering changes adds up to nothing less than a revolution in the clothing industry—a revolution that extends far beyond the styles of external apparel.

Manning the barricades of this revolution are the thousands of small boutiques flourishing throughout the country. They ignore whatever trend there was or is in clothing retailing toward large stores specializing in mass produced, synthetic, permanent press, low cost apparel.

One such boutique, candidly called the "Clothing Store," recently opened in the Village of New Paltz, perhaps Ulster County's prime example of a citadel of revolutionary activity.

The Clothing Store offers a diverse assortment of head-to-toe attire from the subdued to the outrageous and from the traditional to the far-out.

The New Freedom

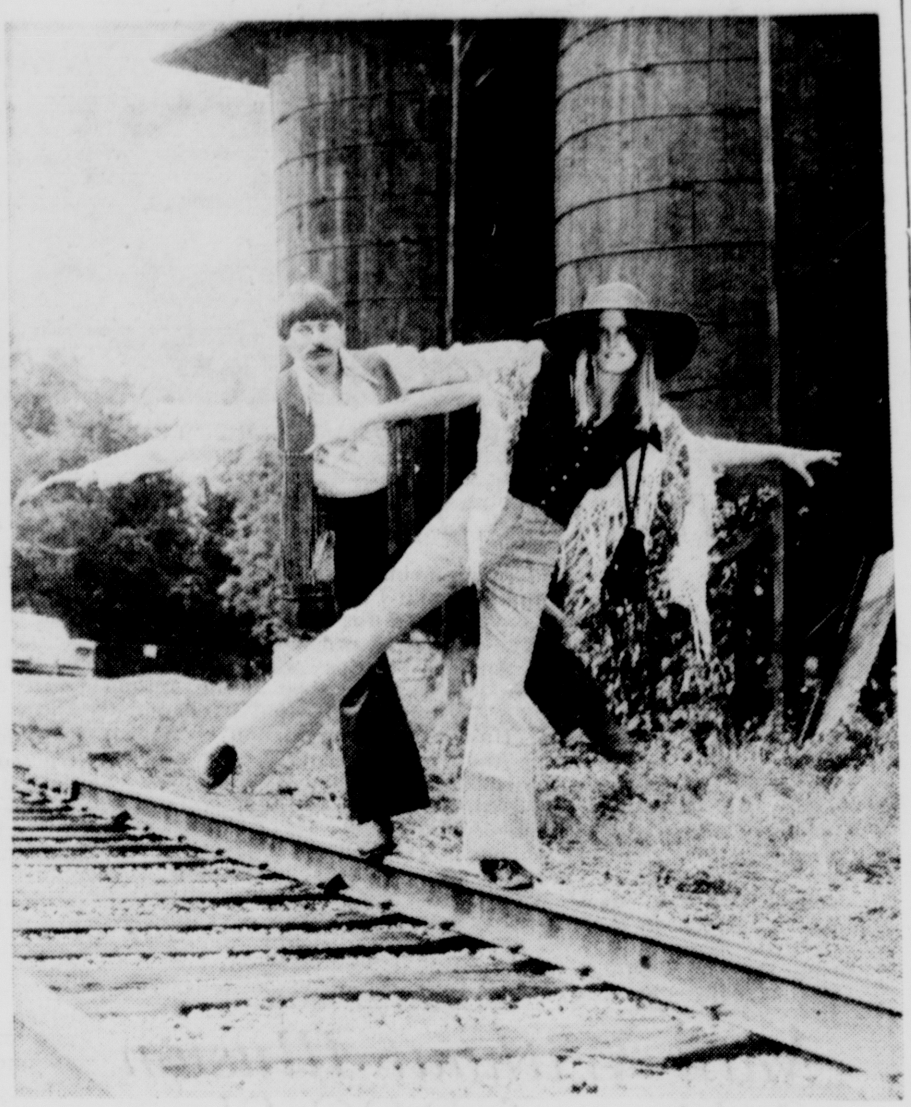

Mike Horbund, proprietor of the Clothing Store, characterizes the new look as an expression of freedom by both sexes.

"Young people are no longer adhering to the style dictates set down by a handful of New York designers," Horbund says. "Now they're selecting their clothes on the basis of personal preference, regardless of style, size or color."

Will this new trend toward "unisex" in wearing apparel lead to further obfuscation of the sexes?

Horbund, for one, doesn't think so. "The difference is still quite apparent . . . It's just that now you have to get a little closer."

More often than not, proximity is not the necessary ruler. It takes only eyesight—not hindsight—to tell Claudia from Steve in Tempo's accompanying photographic spread.

SHADES OF THE DEPRESSION hobo days! It's Claudia and Steve again; she in floppy velvet hat, yellow paisley "grandma" shawl, "mini" sweater, and high rise engineer stripe bell bottoms. He's geared out in purple suede vest with 16 inch fringe and purple beads, tapered candy striped shirt and high rise jeans.

SQUAW AND BRAVE influence in 1969 apparel shows up in these unisex matchmates. He and she twin it in buckskin jackets with 12 inch fringe, Robin Hood shirts, Indian medicine bag pouches, and herringbone twill jeans. (All photos by Freeman photographer Bob Haines).

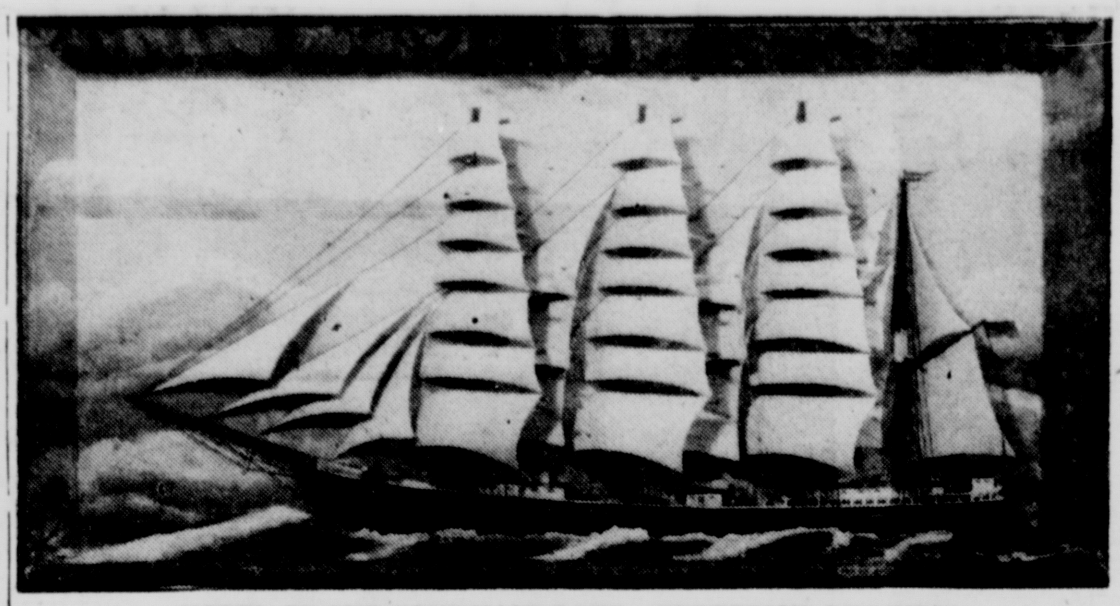

Canvases With 'Zapp'

An art exhibit has opened in the Dutchess Hall Gallery at Dutchess Community College featuring paintings by Boris Chezar.

David Lax, head of the college Art Department, said of Chezar's work, "Contemporary conceptions in visual art, as exemplified by Chezar, are in a tremendous state of flux. This is to be expected in a world torn by social change and technological revolution. Chezar has had one man shows at the Associated American Artists Gallery and other leading galleries and we are pleased to show his paintings.

"Present day artists are overwhelmed by the attractions of speed, motion, sound, artificial lighting, and new materials. Human beings throb and cavort to an electronic beat in plastic packages. It is the explosive 'zapp' and 'pow' of the comic strip and TV, triggered by electrical circuitry, which seem most to satisfy the need for expression. Multimedia and environmental approaches to art dominate our thinking.

"Using traditional pigments, the canvases of Boris Chezar attempt to trap the trauma of modern existence in a kind of visual confrontation," Lax said. The exhibition will remain on campus until Nov. 4 and is open to the public free of charge.

MODEL OF THE FOUR-MAST BARK "FREDERICK BILLINGS"

Antiques in the Autumn Air

Autumn. Shocks of corn rustling in the wind. Pumpkins set aside for Halloween. Leaves shimmering like a galaxy of stage lights in the trees. And the biggest arts and antique fetival of them all.

"The Best That Man Has Made in 40 Centuries" is the theme of this year's National Arts & Antiques Festival, opening today at the Seventh Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and 67 Street, New York City. And among the "best" will be the ship model in a shadow box pictured here. It's part of a collection of nautical antiques to be shown by Karl Wede, marine specialist, Glenerie Lake Park, at the festive show slated for more than a week's run and concluding Nov. 2.

Ulsterites who go down to browse or shop at the Antiques Festival will find it open daily from 1-11 p.m. and on Sundsys from 1-7 p.m. They'll also find Saugertiesian Wede's sailor folk art one of the highlights of the show.

His unusual collection of 20 ship models in shadow boxes was acquired only a short time ago. All of the over-the-waves art was done by the late Captain F. A. Gentzen.

Collector Wede tells Tempo that models in shadow boxes are a special kind of sailor's folk art; says the ships are actually only half-hulls, mounted on a painted background, with sails carved from wood and a sculptured sea added.

Wede had originally contracted to exhibit all 20 of his unique shadow box models in New York, but last week thieves broke into his shop and museum and stole seven of the half-hulls, along with other ship models. Missing, among other antiques, are a New England four-masted schooner, a scale model of the Coast Guard's training ship "Eagle," the seven shadow boxes, examples of scrimshaw and other marine curios and antiques.

Since many of the stolen items were intended for the New York show, Wede will substitute other interesting models and objects to take their place at the Antiques Festival.

And included, of course, will be the balance of the shadow box models not stolen, all representing well-known sailing ships of the past.

Man Without Illusion Subject of DCC Show

An exhibition of sculpture by Ludvik Durchanek is being featured at Dutchess Community College from now to Nov. 4 in the Dutchess Hall Gallery, Professor David Lax, head of the College Art Department, announced today.

"It is not always that we are privileged to exhibit the work of a major sculptor on our campus," Lax said. "Ludvik Durchanek is representative of an important group of 20th century artists who are concerned primarily with the human condition. To these men every invention of form must be derived from the imperatives of philosophical content. In this, Durchanek is a standard bearer for the humanist position in modern art.

"For students and teachers alike, concerned with 'relevance,' the work of Durchanek at 67 provides an answer which focuses on man rather than form alone," Lax said.

Durchanek uses hammered sheet bronze, nickel silver and copper to create stunning caricatures of contemporary personalities who are painfully familiar, but remain hauntingly anonymous.

The series was conceived by the artist three years ago. Says Durchanek, "I have been looking at 'Homo Sapiens' without illusion — that is — without rose colored glasses. I find varieties sweet and bitter—but enduring. I am still looking."

Regal Entertainment

As a highly successful stage play and an Oscar-winning movie, "The King and I" delighted Broadway theatre-goers and film fans everywhere. Now the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical classic is being readied for presentation in Kingston.

Cast and crew of Coach House Players are already rehearsing songs and dances, readying props, costumes, lights and scenery for performances Nov. 20, 21 and 22 at J. Watson Bailey School auditorium.

Musical buffs will already know that "The King and I" is the tuneful story of a British widow who goes off to Siam in 1860 to teach Western ways to the King's numerous wives and children. In the Coach House cast, the charming teacher will be portrayed by talented Betty Friday, and the King of Siam will be Bob Meyerhoff.

Young Lovers

The young and unhappy lovers of the subplot, forced to "Kiss in a Shadow" by the jealous and iron-willed king, will be recreated by Harry Sommers and Jeannine McCullough. To this duet, also, will fall the pleasant task of singing the Rodgers and Hammerstein words and music of one of the most poignant songs in the score, the beautifully persuasive "I Have Dreamed." Miss McCullough will also bring her talent to the lovely solo, "My Lord and Master."

In the Coach House production, Betty Lindsay has been cast as Lady Thiang, the King's favorite wife; will solo on the moving lyrics of "'Something Wonderful," celebrating wifely devotion and understanding forgiveness of the monarch's frailties.

The Players have also cast talented area youngsters in the production, and some 25 children ranging in age from seven to 15-years-old will trod the the boards in the show. Among the will be Jeff Werbalowsky as the Crown Prince and Kieran Egan and Louis Leonowens, son of the widowed teacher.

Directing "The King and I" is Bill Skilling.

Van Dyke Returns

As predicted, Dick Van Dyke returns to series duty for CBS. Plans call for a weekly half-hour situation comedy show in the 1971-72 season, just 10 years after the debut of his first series, which went five years. The new series will be entirely different from the old one.

HERB GARDEN AT OLD STURBRIDGE VILLAGE

Bringing in the Sheaves

Autumn is the season for bringing in the sheaves at Pliny Freeman Farm, Old Sturbridge Village, a veritable center of living history. A short drive from Kingston, the Village is in Sturbridge, Mass.; offers a chance to see life as it was on a northeastern farm 150 years ago.

Tempo spent an October weekend there; found it delightful. Against a background of blazing autumn foliage, arduous chores are performed each day as costumed workers dig potatoes, gather pumpkins, pick, husk and shock up or "top" acres of an early variety of flint corn as fodder for the farm's heifers, oxen and baby steers.

Grains have already been harvested for feeding the sheep, swine and horses, and oats have been stored in the mow for flailing and winnowing. But visitors to the Village in November will still be able to see many activities performed in the old manner (using reproductions of antique tools created by careful craftsmen). And they'll be able to watch the traditional harvesting of old-time herbs for decorative, culinary, aromatic and dyeing purposes.

Roam and Ramble

Visitors roam the pasture and crop land, marvel at the long stretches of hand split post and rail fences, and dawdle at the animal pens. Tramping through the newly cleared apple orchard and along the new cart path, they wander across the bridge leading to the tailrace of the gristmill. A visit to the cooperage, too, is a must . Here, five days a week, the village cooper turns out buckets, piggins and other small products of his trade, using tools and techniques that are centuries old.

Farmers are on hand to demonstrate and farmwives to busy themselves with cooking stews, beans, gingerbread, fruit pies and other staple foods that were ever popular in early New England.

On our visit, we sampled a piece of spicy and hard gingerbread; watched pies being dispensed to the farmers on their afternoon "pie-break." In a dyeing shed outside a farmhouse we saw costumed women demonstrate the dyeing of yarn using such native materials as onion skins, bedstraw, sunflower leaves, goldenrods, marigolds, broom sedge, dock and imported alum, potassium, chlorate, etc., and both these and the dyes were simmered over open fires in huge copper kettles.

At Old Sturbridge Village with its 36 homes, mills, craft shops and meetinghouses, they'll tell you that virtually everyone was a farmer in early New England and raised his own crops whether he was a minister, lawyer or physician. Here one realizes how self sufficient man once was and how closely he lived to the soil.

Preserved for Today

The life of the early settlers is preserved here and the Village presents the past for today's visitors . . . and a half a million people annually come to see and marvel.

We marvelled, as well, at the herb barn and garden where more than 250 varieties of herbs are grown. And learned how the Yankee housewife forearmed herself for winter by bringing in plants she had raised during the summer; readying them for a variety of household uses.

Versed ourselves only in the use of oregano in spaghetti sauce and saffron in paella, we found that—for the early settler, herbs provided medicines, preservatives, cooking aids, deodorants and dyes. Once gathered, dryed and processed, the herbs at Old Sturbridge are not destined to become 'do-it-yourself' medicines as in old New England—but become handsome arrangements that decorate Village buildings in goldenrod, safflower, weld, broom sedge and marigold abundance.

If you visit Sturbridge this fall, stop for a chat with the Village herbalist. She's a walking encyclopedia of herb knowledge and lore, and she'll tell you about Joe Pye Weed and Tansy, Boneset, Dock, Cornflowers, Yarrow and Absinthium.

Invitational Ballet

"Invitational Ballet" will be presented at Poughkeepsie High School auditorium Sunday evening, Nov. 9. This annual performance is staged as a cultural endowment to the community with no charge for admission. As in the past, guest ballet companies will participate, resulting in a wide variety of choreographic works. In addition, Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company, under the artistic direction of Estelle & Alfonso, will premiere a new ballet.

Committees have been appointed to host the event. Visiting ballet companies often travel miles to perform in Poughkeepsie, must be welcomed, rehearsed, directed and entertained throughout the long day of "Invitational Ballet." Lunch and dinner will be served to the visiting dancers by the Reception Committee; rehearsal scheduling and organizational details are under the guidance of another group. Still others will be in charge of the technical stage crew and invitations.

Dutchess Bank and Trust Company will assist in this cultural endeavor by arranging for advertisement and distribution of invitations. City Manager and Mrs. James Mulcare will host "Invitational Ballet."

FREEMAN AD'S BRING RESULTS

Television

Good for Laughs

On buying air line tickets, Phyllis Diller had this comment: "I'll take two chances to Miami."

Merv Griffin described the plot of a science-fiction movie in his late night CBS show: "It's about a president who promises to get us out of Vietnam and does."

And Dick Cavett tells us that Shirley Temple is very busy at the U.N. "She's trying to free the crew of the good ship Lollypop," says witty Dick.

Sleepy Hollow Show

Tempo readers who have visited the three Sleepy Hollow Restorations at Tarrytown and Croton-on-Hudson will want to know they'll be the subject of NBC's "New York Illustrated" tonight at 7 p.m. on Channel 4. Carl Carmer, noted Hudson Valley historian, will be among those narrating the video tour of Philipsburg Manor, Van Cortlandt Manor and author Washington Irving's Tarrytown home of Sunnyside.

RANDOM THOUGHTS ON RECENT VIEWING:

That daring precision flying of the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds stole the show from such stalwarts as Frank Sinatra Sr., Nancy Sinatra, Jack Benny and Sammy Davis Jr. on the Frank Sinatra Jr. Special this week. Soaring, gliding and looping to the tune of "Going Out of My Head," the Birds came through with a beautifully thrilling scene that was a magnificent aerial ballet.

Eric Wallach, an actor we've admired for years, was at his best on Laugh-In as the toastmaster at a gangland testimonial.

Fascinating stuff was Net Journal's "Matador," the life story of El Cordobes, the superstar of the bull ring in Spain.

Football and its effects on Americana well handled by Charles Kuralt "Football: One Hundred Years Old and Still Kicking," a lavish montage of historical data, gridiron thrills, spectator and player passions on and off the field, etc.

Low blow or not, we enjoyed Kraft Music Hall's format of having some fun with newspapers. Alan King's opening monologue on the great American institution, the Sunday newspapers, was a gas, as were the other spoofs on marital advice columns, editorials, cartoons, sports and the women's page.

Dragnet came up with a public service show that was both informative and frightening. All about drugs: pills, marijuana, acid and up and the dangers in their use.

PICK OF THE PROGRAMS IN THE WEEK AHEAD:

Tonight, Sat., Oct. 25

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS (ABC, 6 p.m.) Amateur boxing teams from the USA and USSR meet at Caesar's Palace, Las Vegas, Nev., with Muhammed Ali (Cassius Clay) and sportscaster Howard Cosell announcing the events.

AMONG THE FUNNIEST funnymen performing on television today are slim Sid Caesar and that plump "girl," Jack E. Leonard. Shown here in a scene from a recent Bob Hope special, both Caesar and Leonard are frequent guest stars on variety, comedy and musical hours around the channels.

ON BEING BLACK (Channel 17, 7 p.m.). Internationally-famed Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater performs two dances, "The Black Belt" and "Revelations" to mirror the reality of life for black America. (Also on Channel 13 Monday at 8 p.m.)

SATURDAY MOVIES (NBC, 8:30 p.m.). One of the best pictures of any year, it's "Tom Jones" with Albert Finney as the footloose adventurer of the title. Film won four Oscars; deserved more as far as we're concerned.

Sunday, Oct. 26

FACE THE NATION (CBS, 12 noon). Willy Brandt, West Germany's new coalition Chancellor, is interviewed from Bonn, Germany.

JUILLIARD COMES TO LINCOLN CENTER (CBS, 5:30 p.m.). A must for music lovers, this dedication concert has the Julliard Orchestra conducted by Jean Morel, Leopold Stokowski, Shirley Verrett, Van Cliburn and Itzhak Perlman with Leonard Bernstein as host.

IT'S THE GREAT PUMPKIN, CHARLIE BROWN (CBS, 7:30 p.m.). Funny and charming, and, by now, the Halloween classic it deserves to be, it focuses on Linus and his sincere pumpkin patch vigil for the Great Pumpkin.

BILL COSBY SHOW (NBC, 8:30 p.m.). Particularly funny for anyone who has ever had trouble with algebra — and that includes most of the population. Bill's problem as a substitute math teacher: how many pounds of 79 cent candy and how many of $1.25 candy have to be mixed for nine pounds to sell at 96 cents. Can you solve it?

THE ADVOCATES (Channel 13 and 17, 10 p.m.). At issue is the fate of the American supersonic transport as skilled courtroom debators argue in live telecast whether "Congress should provide funds to develop a supersonic transport (SST)." (President Nixon supports the SST; seeks $110-million in new development funds for this fiscal year.)

DAVID SUSSKIND SHOW (Channel 5, 11 p.m.). Mayoral candidates John Lindsay, John Marchi, and Mario Procaccino debate "Crime in the Streets" and "Law and Order."

Monday, Oct. 27

MOVIE (NBC, 9 p.m.). Lorne Greene, in his first film since he started in Bonanza 12 years ago, plays a Russian agent in a spy thriller filmed in London.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE (CBS, 9:30 p.m.). New York Giants vs. Dallas Cowboys in Dallas.

Tuesday, Oct. 28

UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU (ABC, 7:30 p.m.). Cousteau and the crew of the Calypso track California Grey Whales.

RED SKELTON SHOW (CBS, 8:30 p.m.) John Wayne celebrates his 40th year in films with Red in "The High and the Flighty" and "Hominy and True Grit" skits.

Wednesday, Oct. 29

ACT NOW (Channel 13 and 17, 8 p.m.). Takes us backstage to examine the training program of "the best acting company in the country," the American Conservatory Theater.

HERB ALPERT SPECIAL (NBC, 9 p.m.). Petula Clark joins Herb and the Tijuana Brass on their third video outing, "The Brass Are Coming."

MOVIE (ABC, 9 p.m.). Delightful comedy drama about an ugly duckling in mod London, it's "Georgy Girl" with Lynn Redgrave, Alan Bates and James Mason.

Thursday, Oct. 30

DAVID SUSSKIND SHOW (Channel 17, 8 p.m.). Five articulate and angry Jewish mothers strike back at "Portnoy's Complaint," Phillip Roth's current best-selling book.

MARGARET BOWDEN (Michael Learned) clasps the dead body of her would-be-soldier son Clayton (Ror Schenk) in scene from "Glory! Hallelujah!" A dramatic evocation of the Civil War, it will be presented on the NET Playhouse "Theatre America" series by the American Conservatory Theatre this coming Friday, October 31 at 8:30 p. m. over Channel 17.

Friday, Oct. 31

GLORY, HALLELUJAH! (Channels 13 & 17, 8:30 p.m.). Performed by the American Conservatory Theater, an excellent acting company, this drama explores the nature of war and its effect on members of a Louisiana family deeply involved in the War between the States. Strong contrasts between the grim reality of the battlefield and the romantic view of the war held by those back home. (T.G.)

RECORDS

Big Ones by Beatles, The Band

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"Abbey Road", the 19th album by the Beatles is a terrific album, full of interesting and lovely songs, ducks. Of course most of their albums are—but not all.

The Beatles already had an album ready for release in October—"Get Back, Don't Let Me Down and 12 Others"—but recorded this one and put it out first. The other is scheduled to come out before Christmas.

There are 16 tracks on "Abbey Road," starting with the upbeat "Come Together." On several tracks, like this one, you can't really understand much of the lyrics; we know most listeners won't care, but we do. On some tracks, the lyrics are perfectly clear.

It's the Best

"Something" is written by George Harrison, who has said he thinks it's the best melody he's ever done. It'll be the next single. It sounds like a ballad many people will record.

"Maxwell's Silver Hammer" is the kind of thing a square person just wishes the Beatles wouldn't do. It's a celebration of murder. We tried to ignore it or to hate it, but in two listenings had unwillingly memorized it and had started humming it around the house.

"Oh! Darling" has a country-western flavor, sung with that country catch in the throat and even a little blues scream. "Octopus's Garden" is an appealing tune and a lovely, childlike fantasy.

"I Want You" lyrically consists of two phrases. From a whole song that sounds like the ending to "Hey Jude," we get a "Hey Jude" ending tacked on. It's a rave up on a send up.

A Spanish Flavor

"Because" is another lovely tune, sung with close three-part harmony. "You Never Give Me Your Money" becomes ricky ticky in the middle and the lyrics are hard to figure out. "Sun King" is still another pleasing melody and in the middle it goes into Spanish and has the flavor of "Guantanamera."

Once in a while a fragment of a Beatle song will jump out and stick in your mind. "And Tuesdays on the Phone to Me" jumps out of "She Came in Through the Bathroom Window" for this listener. "Golden Slumbers" is a lullaby. "Carry that Weight" sounds so right you can't believe it wasn't always around.

Another exceptional new album is "The Band," on Capitol. It's a second—and even better—album, following 1968's "Music from Big Pink," by the group that was once Bob Dylan's backup group and was with him at the Isle of Wight festival this summer.

There are 12 songs on here written by Jaime Robbie Robertson, three of them collaborations with other members of the Band. The other four in the Band are Garth Hudson, Richard Manuel, Levon Helm and Rick Danko.

LP of the Year?

"The Band" came out on Sept. 22 and some critics were calling it the best LP of the year. We don't go that far, but do like it a lot. Except for the way the tune moves forward on "When You Awake," none of the writing sounds like Dylan.

On this album, too, much of the lyrics can't be understood and the tunes are imaginative and original.

"Up on Cripple Creek" and "Whispering Pines" strongly stress the western of country-western, a very good idea. "The Night They Drove Old Dixie Down" is extremely strong Civil War fare.

You can tell yo u 're listening to real musicians on this album. Listen to the instrumental part of "The Unfaithful Servant" and you can hear melody and harmony and inventiveness—no substitution of noise for music.

Poetry ContestOffers Prizes

The seventh annual Kansas City (Mo.) Poetry Contests, offering a total of $1,600 in prizes and publication of a book-length manuscript, have been announced by Hallmark Cards.

One of four sponsors, Hallmark will again offer six $100 cash awards for single poems by full time undergraduate students in the United States. More than 2,000 students submitted entries in the 1969 compeition.

In addition, the Devins Memorial Award offers a $500 advance on royalties for a book-length poetry manuscript to be published by the University of Missouri Press, and the Kansas City Star offers four $100 prizes for single poems.

The deadline for submission of entries is February 1, 1970, and winners will be announced April 30 at the closing reading of the 1969-70 American Poets Series of the Kansas City Jewish Community Center. The judges have not yet been announced but in the past have included Conrad Aiken, Louis Untermeyer, Robert Penn Warren, Philip Booth, and Edwin Honig.

All entries are judged anonymously. The author's name is enclosed in a sealed envelope attached to his entry. Complete contest rules may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Kansas City Poetry Contests, P.O. Box 8618, Kansas City, Mo. 64114.

Musical 'Scrooge'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Richard Harris will play the title role in "Ebenezer Scrooge," a musical movie version of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" for Cinema Center Films.

Triple Talent

Michael Landon does more than simply play Little Joe Cartwright on NBC's "Bonanza." He is directing his third episode for the series, a tale entitled "Dead Wrong," which he also wrote. He has written 12 scripts.

Another good reason to save with US!

You'd think money was going out of style! Sure, everybody needs to borrow sometime, for really important reasons — BUT the way some banks and credit agencies talk all you need is a little magic card and you can "enjoy now — pay manana!" (They don't talk about the fun you'll have repaying that 15—18—20% interest!)

Well, we've got a magic plan, too. It's called a savings plan. We pay you for the use of your money. Then when there's something you need, you have the money to pay for it. Revolutionary? No, just good sense!

Come see US about a savings account and put your money to work for YOU

5% Compounded Daily — Estimated Effective Annual Rate 5.13%

Ice Cream Lover

"I hope I have to eat tons of ice cream," says eight-year-old Karen Sedore of the Howard Johnson TV commercial she's just been signed to do.

Karen, daughter of the Louis Sedores of Poughkeepsie and a third grader at Martha Lawrence School, is also appearing in two other current video commercials. For a cereal company, she's featured as an active youngster at play in an outdoor setting. And, using her tap dance talents (she studies at the Estelle & Alfonso studio, Poughkeepsie), she's starring in a spray starch commercial in which she dances as if sprayed with a stiff starch, goes limp from a weak starch, and comes up perfect when sprayed with the sponsor's product.

Karen also studies voice, acrobatics, baton and ballet with Estelle & Alfonso; has appeared in Modern Millie, The Sound of Music, Half a Sixpence, The Christmas Story, and on the Yule telecast over Channel 6 last season.

Teenage Pageant

Finals of the Miss Teenage America Pageant will be telecast for 90 minutes Nov. 15 on CBS from Fort Worth, Texas.

PHILIPSBURG MANOR, vintage 1969 restored, recalls 1720-1750 at its Upper Mills, North Tarrytown site. Gristmill with operating waterwheel, wharf and granary is at left; two-story stone Manor House dating to about 1683 in center; oak-timbered dam backs up Pocantico River at right to create mill pond furnishing waterwheel power for grinding corn.

SUNNYSIDE, near Philipsburg Manor, is located in Tarrytown; is alive with the tastes and interest of its former, famous resident, author Washington Irving, who use it as his country retreat while writing such works as The Legend of Sleepy Hollow and other folklorist classics in the 1800's.

Gables, Gristmills and Rainbow Colors

Undoubtedly the most positive sign of autumn in the Hudson River valley is the changing of the leaves from hardy summer green to the brightest rainbow colors.

Perfect for viewing this fall show in the valley are three special places where history was made and is now preserved.

These would be Sunnyside, the Tarrytown home of author Washington Irving; Philipsburg Manor, Upper Mills, in North Tarrytown; and Van Cortland Manor in Croton-on-Hudson. All are within a 10-mile stretch of each other along the east side of the Hudson River in what is known as Sleepy Hollow country.

A Gabled Home

In addition to the gabled home of Washington Irving, author of such literary works as "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" and "Rip Van Winkle," the 20-acre estate of Sunnyside has a great variety and number of trees. They become nearly bewitching as fall's cool weather follows the heat of summer.

Science explains the foliage color change is caused by the chemical action that occurs inside the leaf when the temperature drops. Cool weather turns the sugar in the leaf into starch, giving the leaf its newer and livlier colors.)

North of Sunnyside by three miles is Philipsburg Manor in North Tarrytown. Philipsburg has been restored to its appearance of the early 1700s when it was an important gristmill-trading center complex.

Like Sunnyside Philipsburg is an excellent setting for experiencing fall.

A Miller at Work

Its multicolored trees are a perfect backdrop for this flashback into Dutch-American history. Today as in the early 18th century a miller grinds corn into meal in the Manor's waterpowered gristmill while ducks and Canadian geese swim the up and down parts of the Pocantico River.

Near the mill is a two-story stone Manor House, begun in the 1680s and now authentically furnished to its correct period. In its heyday Philipsburg Manor was northern headquarters for a 90,000-acre landholding.

Seven miles north of Philipsburg Manor is Van Cortland Manor. Once headquarters for an 86,000-acre estate Van Cortland Manor is now restored to its appearance in the late 1800s. Then the Manor was at its zenith politically, socially and economically.

While the original estate is now reduced to some 20 restored acres, the Manor House has rested on a highpoint of land that overlooks the confluence of the Hudson and Croton Rivers since part of its foundation was laid in the 1680s. Surrounding the stately porticoed house are copses of trees and bushes whose colors autumn delights in changing.

Take Route 9

All three properties lie just off U.S. Route 9. Sunnyside is one mile south of the Tappan Zee Bridge on the east bank of the Hudson River in Tarrytown. Philipsburg Manor is two miles north of the Tappan Zee Bridge in North Tarrytown and west of Route 9. Van Cortland Manor in Croton-on-Hudson is east of Route 9 and nine miles north of the Tappan Zee Bridge.

The restorations are open Monday to Friday 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. April 1 to Nov. 15 and 12 noon to 4 p. m. Nov. 16 to March 31. Weekend hours all year are 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

SUNOCO SUNOCO

JANIS JOPLIN of the magnificent voice is one of the "progressive rock" performers to be seen in "Monterey Pop," the musical festival film holding forth this weekend only at Kingston's Community Theatre.

CLINT EASTWOOD stars in "Hang 'Em High," one of two western films being featured this weekend at the local 9-W Drive-In.

MOTEL MOMENT — Dan Rowan thinks he's scored a victory by getting Julie Newmar to a motel in "The Maltese Bippy," but all he gets is the surprise of his life. The comedy is currently featured on the double bill at Hyde Park Drive-In.

MOVIES

Me, Natalie

Patty Duke, playing a comical, touching, insecure 18-year-old, is the top attraction of "Me, Natalie," the film currently featured at two area movie houses. Playing at Kingston's Mayfair and Hyde Park's Roosevelt, it has Patty leaving her over-solicitous middle-class parents; having a brief affair with a young married man that convinces her she can be needed and loved.

Patty (or Natalie) had never had much reason to think so. An ugly duckling at six, only child of a not too prosperous Brooklyn couple, she had always been told that homely children grow up to be pretty. Now, at 18, she realizes this is not necessarily so.

Her unhappy high school experiences with blind dates, the present lack of any dating experiences at all, confirm her belief, and she hides her injured pride behind abrasive witticisms. Embarrassed by her well-meaning, panicky parents' attempts to marry her off, she moves to a rickety brownstone apartment in Greenwich Village, becomes a waitress in a risque night club, buys a motorcycle and begins to live.

Her short-lived affair with a young married architect shows her she is not as unpretty or as unsought as she thought; lets her face the world as a self-assured young woman.

Patty Duke is both touching and comical in the title role, and gets excellent support from the recognizable characters in the cast.

Hang 'em High

Ho-hum, another rerun, rerun rerun. "Hang 'em High," now at the local 9-W Drive-In, has Clint Eastwood as a deputy marshal. And old Clint has his trouble keeping personal vengeance out of his grim job as he hunts the vigilantes who had tried to lynch him.

Tale takes off in a town in Oklahoma Territory in the 70's with vigilantes lynching former law man Clint, whom they accuse of rustling and murder. Cut down in the nick of time and cleared of the false (but natch) charges, he is appointed deputy marshal by a stern judge, a fanatical believer in hanging. Warned not to use his office as a cover for personal vengeance, new marshal Eastwood gains a reputation for rounding up the Territory's criminals. But he never relaxes his relentless stalking of the lynch gang. Eventually, his grim vigil is ended (but natch).

Pat Hingle plays the judge; Ed Begley, the leader of the lynchers; Eastwood, the marshal, and Inger Stevens, the shopkeeper, raped and widowed by an assailant she'd like to do in. Considerable violence in this one.

The Good, The Bad And the Ugly

A brutal Italian made western is this film, featured on the double bill this weekend at 9-W Drive-In. Supposedly set in the American Southwest during the Civil War, it's about three men who search for treasure buried in a cemetery, with plenty of killing in the process.

Another rerun, it stars Clint Eastwood as a gunfighter, Eli Wallach as a Mexican outlaw, and Lee Van Cleef as a homicidal criminal. They're scouring the countryside for the hiding place of a stolen Army cash box.

The struggle among the three men to outwit each other becomes a long succession of sadistic incidents, torture and killings as others take up the hunt for the money's whereabouts. A bizarre score and unsparing photography accentuate the film's brutality.

Monterey Pop

Now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre is this swinging documentary of the 1967 Monterey Pop Festival. Just released this year, it's one hour and 12 minutes of frenzied fun for those who dig the Mamas & Papas, Hugh Masekela, Jefferson Airplane, Grace Slick, Big Brother & the Holding Company, Janis Joplin, Otis Redding, Ravi Shankar, and all those other rock stars who turn on the big crowd.

Photographed effectively in ultra-mod style, it offers a detailed study of some of the country's more colorful artists at work.

Don't Look Back

Co-featured at the Community — and logically so — is this documentary delving into the Dylan mystique. That would be Bob Dylan, High Poet of Folk and composer-musician who has

Dining Out

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Oktoberfest ! Schlachtfest ! Fun and fine foods like bratwurst, knockwurst, liverwurst, pork loin, ham, roast pig, chocolate cake, homemade bologna and sausages and beer by the foaming stein.

Our picturesque Catskills are blessed with a large number of restaurants that pay traditional attention to these admirable Old Country celebrations and the pleasure they bring in the fall of the year.

But for our purposes this week, we're concentrating on just one. That would be the Maverick Inn, out on Route 28 at Glenford.

Sauerkraut and Dumplings

Only the briefest glance at the Maverick's menu will tell you that here is to be found Wine Sauerkraut, Old Style Sauerbraten, Red Cabbage, Potato Pancakes, Dumplings, Goulash and Schnitzel.

This author heartily recommends two distinctive entrees; both served up with flair at the Maverick. First and foremost is the Roast Roulade of Beef ($4.25) and running this taste delight a close second is the Roast Duckling ($3.75).

Often offered on the daily specials, the beef roulade and the duckling should be savored and enjoyed on the complete dinner. Dally over the relish dish, a cup of soup, a glass of juice, a fruit cup or shrimp cocktail; then get down to some delicious eating over your bird or beef. Top off your meal with something light in the way of dessert (pound cake or ice cream) and you'll find you've been party to a pleasant meal.

Two other specials (both bowing in on the menu at only $2.70) are deserving of mention here. Served with wine sauerkraut and mashed potatoes, relish dish and rolls and butter, they're Knockwurst and the Switzerland Bratwurst.

House Specialty

For their part, the Inn's proprietors recommend their own specialty. They take considerable pride in their Old Style Sauerbraten, accompanied to the table by red cabbage, dumplings and tossed green salad.

If you're having the sauerbraten, Tempo suggests you order the potato pancakes as an extra. They add the proper touch to this entree; will add only 50 cents to your bill of $3.25 for the dinner.

Another hearty meal at the Maverick is the Hungarian Goulash with noodles, a rhapsody of spices at $2.75. And for the diner who prefers more American fare, the Inn offers roast sirloin of beef, Virginia ham with wine sauce and pineapple, Southern deep fried chicken, and club steak on toast.

On the appetizers list, we have always found the shrimp cocktail, Bismark herring, or herring in cream to be admirable, and the soup du jour is consistently excellent.

For seafood fans, there's lobster tails, shrimps, oysters and scallops. For us (when we're not having the duck), there's a most marvelous pot roast and an always enjoyable Weiner Schnitzel.

Oil Portrait Wins First Prize

At the Armonk Art Exhibition, an open air show in Westchester last week, first prize for oils went to Ellen Arment Pudvan, shown here with her winning work. The artist is a Woodstock resident and student at Woodstock School of Art, where she has studied silk screen printing with serigraphy instructor Jerry Jerominek, the subject of her prize-winning painting. Mrs. Pudvan has also been a student and monitor in the portrait and figure painting class taught by Franklin Alexander at the year round school in the art colony. In addition to the prize, awarded in competition with 100 other Westchester exhibitors, the artist independently sold $450 worth of other paintings and drawings at the Armonk Exhibit.

Geometric Art

The Gallery of the Greene Building of the School of Architecture at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute is displaying selected works of artist William G. F. Botzow for a two-week period.

The Troy exhibit, consisting of large scale painted geometric constructions, went on view Oct. 20 at 8 p.m. and will be open to the public daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturdays and Sundays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. through Nov. 2.

A New York State native, Botzow graduated from Princeton in 1968. While a student at Princeton, the 24 year old artist studied with George Ortman. He has exhibited and won first prize at the Ivy League Art Exhibition.

Botzow lives and works in New York City and presently runs a tutoring center in East Harlem.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

A large slice of nature out Whiteport way — aptly dubbed Hidden Valley—now in process of being brought to light by owners Mickie and Jim Duncan and seven offspring. A recreation-playground, formerly privately owned, later a church retreat, and never before open to the public, it's currently makin' up for lost time.

On a recent Sunday, three separate outings — one a WGHQ shindig—took place on the 230-acre spread without any of the live wires from any fanfare ever once bumping into his neighbor, so spacious the surroundings. Proprietor Jim—who is also president of the family's oil corporation—looks like a cross between Ted Kennedy and Billy Graham, while his missus reminds us of Dinah Shore.

Mrs. D's a lady with a lively imagination and likes nothing better than to spin-a-yarn-or-two. She insists that—exactly at midnight — one can hear stagecoach wheels rounding bend at old-time frame building which used to be stage stop. Sounds like Wild Wild West's Night of the Hunted Horse to our Eastern ears.

Mr. and Mrs. D. with right hands Leo and Muriel O'Hara have completed unbelievable transformation to home-lake-estate. (But distaff half of the team maintains "elves and gremlins work overtime" while Duncan family's abed.)

Daughters, blonde Kathy and brunette Beth, are avid rooters of parental plans to add toboggan runs, heliport, ski mobiles, dance pavilions, hiking trails. Nice to have recreation-minded parents who supply the makin's for a daily holiday all season long.

Sightseeing attractions for the future include restoration of old limestone caves and kilns on the grounds once used in making cement. History on grand scale involved here; some of that cement's now transfusing Statue of Liberty and Brooklyn Bridge. How many kilns can boast that statement?

* * *

If those block-long matches County Legislator Clarence Raichle is passing out are an indication of his political policies, he must be planning to light one small match rather than curse the darkness . . . or else he wants to set the world on fire.

Either way, if it's politics, Dubby's all ablaze.

* * *

Amy Lou MacKinnon, recently soaking up the October sun at her Hurley home, noted two planes coming from opposite directions circling overhead. Discovered later that aviators in one included sister Alice with mate Clarence Beehler from Red Hook, trying out wings in their private plane; the other was flown by Troy businessman, brother David. Obviously, this family (all children of Kingston's Mr. and Mrs. Henry Millonig) feels flying is a must for maximum momentum.

* * *

Saugerties' Seamon Park's spectacular '69 array of chrysanthemums is a fit subject for prolific paintbrush of Kingston artist Blanche Burr. Never saw anyone with such a passion for salad as local songstress Dorothea Flick. At the Musical Society of Kingston's dinner one recent Wednesday at Saugerties' Sawyerkill, she seemed intent on eating her way through all the greenery in sight.

BEEKMAN ARMS beat

October, 1969

Jack Kelly (TV's Maverick) and host of a new TV Quiz Show, had dinner with Innkeeper Chuck LaForge last week at the Arms. Chuck is trying to talk Jack into moving to Dutchess County since his new show is being filmed in N. Y. C. Bob McCallum, the day barman, just finished another successful season playing in the Eastern States Gold Tournaments. Now Bob is anchoring the Beekman Arms bowling team during the winter. Bob Brown, a Wayfarer Chef for many years, has just joined the staff at the Arms. Bob was Chef at the Wilburton Inn, Manchester, Vt. and Bailey's Beach, Newport, R. I. before joining Wayfarer. Many new items and evening specials will be introduced by Chef Brown. A Lester Lanin Orchestra has been booked for New Year's Eve this year. Early reservations are suggested as the hotel will be closed for the private party beginning at 10:00 P. M. Thanksgiving reservations are building early according to Norma Harter. Whole turkeys as well as a special menu will be featured as usual. Since our last column, the Beekman Arms catered a party for Metropolitan Opera star, Rosamund Elias. Suz Parker's column called it a Near East Clambake. Among the celebrities were Robert Merrill, Rudolph Bing and many dignataries from the United Nations. The new Wine Cellar has become a popular addition to the Inn's dining rooms. Just last week, Eddie Bracken dined there twice with his family. The staff welcomed back Bruna Andre after minor surgery at Northern Dutchess Hospital. Bruna is the oldest employee in length of service, (11 years). Joyce Cole, another young "old-timer" just purchased and is training a stallion. Joyce, an accomplished horsewoman, has nine years of service at the Arms. Congratulations to the N. Y. Mets and Gale Brownlee (#141).

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN

Roar of the Greasepaint Means Money

When the houselights dim and that expectant feeling descends upon the audience in J. Watson Baily School auditorium a month from now, the curtain will slowly part and hundreds will be swept up into the heart-tugging plight of a charming widow and her young son, alone with their fears in a foreign land.

And while they lyrically exhort each other to keep a stiff upper lip, hold their heads erect, "and whistle a happy tune, so no one will suspect I'm afraid," the everyday world will be forgotten momentarily while we share their troubles and joys.

But only a few on opening night will think about the time, talent, daring, work, sweat and skill that brought this evening to fruition. And probably no one will be thinking of money.

But the Coach House Players, producers of the forthcoming musical, Rogers and Hammerstein's engaging "The King and I," think about money as they work to bring the exotic flavor of Siam to the stage.

Why, in the name of art and culture, should money be uppermost in their minds?

"Because," says Roger Scholl, Coach House's associate membership chairman, "it takes a heap of money to stage three productions a year in the professional manner for which we strive.

"And this year's season opener, 'The King and I,' will be our most lavish and costly production to date. That's why we're working at fever pitch on our current campaign to sell season tickets, our yearly bargain.

"We have to spend money. We have a huge cast, about 50 people, who must be costumed circa 1880, English and Siamese dress. Scenery is another expense. Most of it is made and painted by our dedicated production staff but we also rent professional backdrops for most musicals. Some drops have been used in the original Broadway stagings.

"Other expenses," he adds "just to name the major ones, include royalty payments, salaries for director and accompanist, scripts and music, as well as the all-year round expenses of keeping up the Coach House building at 12 Augusta Street."

Obviously, Scholl and his theatrical but practical coworkers have a method in mind to solve these mundane but nagging needs.

"And that's the Associate Membership, which is actually a season ticket subscription," says Scholl. "We offer $8 worth of tickets, one for each of our three productions, for only $6. It's like a discount theatre book. Season ticket holders also get first choice of reserved seats for our musical.

"With the advance ticket money, we're able to purchase, rent and hire what we need to complete production," Scholl explains.

Of course, ticket sales at the door account for a large portion of each show's earnings, "but it's our season ticket holders we adore, for without them there can be no Coach House Players."

A season ticket is more than a mere donation. It's a pass to three enchanted evenings of theatrical entertainment, as attested by many who viewed past productions such as "Say, Darling," "South Pacific," "Enter Laughing," Desperate Hours," "Guys and Dolls," "Critics's Choice," "Pajama Game," "Hatful of Rain," and last year's "Finian's Rainbow," "Picnic," and "The Great Sebastians."

"Last year," says Scholl proudly, "we had to set up folding chairs in the aisles on the Saturday night of 'Finian's Rainbow.' We had people overflowing into the cafeteria because every seat, every folding chair, about 600 in all, was taken by those with reserved seats.

"This year we anticipate an even tighter last-minute ticket situation sice 'The King and I' is such a marvelous show for children, too. Of course, those with season tickets and reserved seats will have no difficulties."

The show with the memorable songs will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20, 21 and 22, 8:30 p.m. at J. Watson Bailey School auditorium. Season tickets are available by sending a check for $6 to Coach House Players, 12 Augusta Street, Kingston. Other productions to be staged this year include the comedies "Star Spangled Girl," in February, and "Don't Drink the Water," in May.

Information regarding seat reservattions and single-show tickets will be announced shortly.

How does a show like "The King and I" get off the ground? After the cast has the script in hand, what next? Next Saturday's Tempo will take you behind the scenes for an insider's look at the birth of a production.

influenced more than a few of today's top rock performers.

"Don't Look Back" gives us Dylan on tour in England a few years back. As a look into the past, it is interesting, intriguing and entertaining; throws light on the legendary Dylan's earlier talent and philosophy.

As good as it is, the film is already dated, as hip viewers will find. So rapidly does music change today and so different is Dylan's current approach to his music that "Don't Look Back," a pioneering documentary only a few short years ago, is now something of a work of historical reference.

The Maltese Bippy

Departing from their usual popular TV Laugh-In style, Dan Rowan and Dick Martin play producers of spicy flicks evicted from their one-room studio in this film, now on the double bill at Hyde Park Drive In. Back they go to Dick's old-fashioned Victorian house in a New York suburb where the tenants include a pretty blonde, a morose Dutch violinist, and ar irritable and nervous but forbearing housekeeper, played by Mildred Natwick.

Across the street is a cemetery with an underground passage from the house. Next door lives a trio of weird neighbors, bent on scaring Dick and Dan out of the building, which is reputedly the hiding place of a fabulous jewel. Mysterious happenings, a spooky cellar, werewolves, hypnotism and corpses further confuse matters, with rain and thunderstorms in the background. The antics close with a choice of endings, and you'll be glad to know that Rowan is still the smart one, and Martin is a din-a-ling, a dumdum and a dodo.

Frankly, we'd rather watch Laugh-In...but the kiddies will love "Bippy."

I Am Curious (Yellow)

New Paltz Cinema continues this film about young moviemakers probing Sweden's morals. Subject matter is sometimes absorbing, but directorial method is often confusing. Still, it's something new in the ways of a creative attempt to give artistic voice to youthful dissent from hypocrisy. It's also a landmark film because of its frank, explicit depiction of sexual relations.

It's bound to shock many, but is probably the forerunner of movies that will doubtless take such scenes as much for granted as the kiss in spite of adult reaction. And adults only should see this film which is and should be off limits for children.

Navajo Movie

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Sherwood Price will take his film crew to Window Rock and Canyon de Chelly, Ariz., for location shooting of "A Nation Within," a documentary on the first university run for and by Navajos.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Martin Landau, who left "Mission: Impossible" in a dispute, turns from television to movies to star in "Win," a multi-million-dollar Dino De Laurentiis production.
